Allies Look For More POWs To Seek Return

Dickenson Is Nervous, Refuses Comment On Many News Queries

SEOUL, Thursday, Oct. 22 (AP)—A deeply disturbed U. S. soldier came back from the prisoner compounds of Panmunjom yesterday declaring "I didn't want to live with the Communists."

"Communism is not my belief," Cpl. Edward S. Dickenson said last night. "I have my own beliefs."

But the 23-year-old soldier from Big Stone Gap, Va., fenced with newsmen who tried to get him to tell his full story as one of the 23 American prisoners the Reds had said did not want to come home.

To one question after another, Dickson replied "I can't answer that" or "I don't think I should answer that."

Only when he spoke of his family did the nervous and bewildered young man speak quickly and naturally.

Asked the thing he wanted most, Dickenson replied:

"Meeting my family and having a happy life.

"I'll be more than happy when I get back home with my mother and father and the rest of the family. Therefore, there's no use to worry about me...I'm in the hands of the American people and there's no use for them to worry."

Well, Mr. and Mrs. Van Buren Dickenson back in Big Stone Gap were not worrying. Said the mother:

"Tell him nobody hereabouts thinks hard of him for what he done, and we will all give him a big welcome home. Ain't no hard feelings on our part."

Mrs. Dickenson said she and "nearly everybody" else in the mountains 'round wrote him pleading for him to come home, but Dickenson said he got no letters while at Panmunjom.

Today, the corporal was resting in an Army hospital near Seoul.

Dickenson was returned to the United Nations side yesterday afternoon by Indian guards of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission.

Informants who witnessed his changeover said Dickenson seemed to be extremely nervous and disturbed just before his return to American hands.

Dickenson fidgeted in his blue hospital robe and pajamas during the first part of the news conferences, which was held in a hospital ward with ailing U. S. soldiers and Army nurses looking on.

He spoke clearly and firmly, however, even when he declined to answer questions. He seemed to relax only after the television cameras took over.

Commies Make Light Of Soldier's Sudden Change Of Decision

PANMUNJOM, Thursday, Oct. 22 (AP)—The U. N. Command today looked for other Allied prisoners to follow the lead of the U. S. soldier who turned his back on the Communists in a new reverse for the Reds.

The expectation was based on a statement by Cpl. Edward S. Dickenson, 23, Big Stone Gap, Va., who yesterday asked to be repatriated and was turned over to the Americans.

He said it was "more than likely" that others of the 22 Americans he left behind in the neutral zone compound wanted to come home.

These 23 Americans, 1 Briton and 335 South Koreans were listed by the Communists as refusing repatriation. They were turned over to the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission.

Dickenson came back without being coaxed. The U. N. Command has not yet begun its "explanations" to the prisoners. It seems in no hurry to begin, hoping that others like Dickenson will come back.

Dickenson was the first of the 359 Allied prisoners to ask for repatriation. So far 137 of the 22,963 Chinese and North Koreans turned over by the Allies have done so.

The Communists, who have had little luck coaxing their soldiers to return to Red rule, made light of Dickenson's decision.

A Peiping broadcast asserted that the Communists tried to persuade Dickenson "more than a dozen times" to return home but he "insisted on staying back."

Dickenson's own verdict given at a news conference was that "I didn't want to live with the Communists."

Meanwhile, India as chairman of the repatriation commission strove to get the stalled Communist "explanations" rolling again.

Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, the chairman, called a meeting of the commission for 10 a.m. today (8 p.m. Wednesday, EST).

In effect, it was an invitation to Czech and Polish members to end their three-day walkout on the commission which controls the destiny of the prisoners who are balking at going home.

South Korea Wants Peace Talks Limited

Preliminary Session Needed Only To Set Meeting Time, Place

PANMUNJOM, Thursday, Oct. 22 (AP) — South Korea yesterday came out strongly for limiting the scope of the preliminary Korean peace talks which open in this armistice village Monday.

Foreign Minister Y. T. Pyun, just returned from the United Nations in New York, told newsmen in Pusan the discussions should be confined to fixing a time and place for the Korean peace conference.

In accepting the U. S. offer of a meeting at Panmunjom, the Communists said Monday that the question of seating neutrals at the peace conference should be high on the agenda.

Pyun said the United States was authorized to speak for the U. N. Command only on the matter of date and place, and that the neutral question was beyond the scope of the Panmunjom meeting.

The Communists want Russia, India, Pakistan, Indonesia and Burma to attend as neutrals. The United States and a majority in the U. N. agreed only to Russia, and then only if asked by Red China and North Korea.

The original U. S. offer to meet at Panmunjom said the Allies would be willing to discuss the question of neutrals at the peace conference only "to the extent consistent with" United Nations decisions.

Special Envoy Arthur Dean was flying toward Korea to represent the U. N. Command in the preliminary talks. The Communists have not yet announced their representatives.

Pyun said South Korea might send an observer to Panmunjom to listen in on the conversations.

Four Alarm Fire

Clouds of smoke pour from the roof and a spurt of flame shoots above dormer window as firemen climb extension ladders to fight a four-alarm blaze at Presbyterian Home for Widows and Single Ladies in Philadelphia. First reports said all of more than 200 occupants of the home were evacuated.

Claims Many More Upset Than Farmers

President Breakfasts With General Dean; Fills Advisory Post

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—President Eisenhower rose warmly to the defense of his under-fire secretary of agriculture today.

Sun-tanned and high spirited after his recent swing through the Middle West and down to the Mexican border, the President said he brought back the impression some politicians are more worked up over farm problems than are the farmers and cattlemen themselves.

Meeting with newsmen for the first time since his return from Texas, Eisenhower also declared he is not going to campaign for the Republicans in any district or any state in next year's congressional election.

Breakfasts With Dean

And, fresh from a breakfast with captured-and-released Maj. Gen. William F. Dean, the President shook his head over Communist brainwashing techniques and said he wondered sometimes why so few American soldiers fell—temporarily, at least—for the Red propaganda line.

The farm problem was foremost at today's news conference. Joseph A. Fox of the Washington Star asked the big question: "It's been suggested by Sen. Young (R-ND) that Agriculture Secretary Benson should resign. Did the President care to comment?

At first Eisenhower gave the questioner one of those that-certainly-was-a-mean-curve looks. Then he grinned. Then, deadly serious, he gave his answer—that he for one is not going to be critical of Benson for failing to find a miraculous one-shot cure for all the evils that beset the farmer.

Benson, said the President warmly, is a man dedicated to America and to giving all Americans — farmers and consumers alike — a fair break.

Eisenhower added that it's the President's responsibility to pick his top advisers, apparently meaning he could do without such volunteered advice as Young's.

Appoints Advisory Member

Later in the day, the President designated William I. Meyers, Dean of the School of Agriculture at Cornell University, as chairman of his 18-member National Agricultural Advisory Commission. He also named Ben Swigart, a Democrat and diversified farmer of Mooreland, Okla., to the commission for a term ending Jan. 31, 1955.

All except two positions on the commission have been filled, with 13 active farmers named. The group will meet at the White House Saturday with Eisenhower and Benson to start work on the final phases of the new agricultural program.

Central Police Figure In Kidnap Case Is Quizzed

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 21 (AP)—Police Lt. Louis Shoulders, who arrested the kidnap-slayer of Bobby Greenlease, was questioned today at a top-level police inquiry into apparent conflicts in police accounts of the arrest.

The appearance of the key witness at the hearing room shortly was unexpected. Earlier he had been described by his physician as suffering from a nervous condition and in no shape to testify.

The six-foot, 55-year-old officer appeared composed as he entered the hearing room at police headquarters to undergo questioning by a panel headed by Police Chief Jeremiah O'Connell.

The chief earlier today expressed doubt the missing half of the record $660,000 ransom paid by the multi-millionaire parents of the slain 6-year-old child ever was brought to St. Louis.

Nearly half the ransom money was found in two suitcases in possession of Carl Austin Hall, 34, the confessed killer, when Hall was arrested by Shoulders at an apartment-hotel here Oct. 6. Hall's accomplice in the crime, Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, was seized later the same night in an apartment here.

Chief O'Connell said the possibility of irregularities in police handling of the case raised serious implications. "We'll leave no stone unturned in an effort to get to the bottom of this matter," O'Connell said.

New Law Needed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—Guy Farmer, chairman of the National Labor Relations Board, said today new legislation is needed to give the government greater power in the battle against communism in labor unions.

New Steelworker Demands Seen

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—Leaders of the CIO Steelworkers Union today began studying possible new contract demands, with an eye toward major increases in pension and insurance benefits.

Wages got little attention as the 170-member Union Policy Committee opened a three-day conference to take up proposals involving one and a quarter million steelworkers across the country.

Commies Fell For U. S. Trick

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP) — Joseph P. Grew former ambassador to Japan, said tonight the Communists in Czechoslovakia fell for a Western trick—and thereby proved Radio Free Europe was penetrating the Iron Curtain.

Speaking at a Crusade for Freedom conference dinner, Grew told how Radio Free Europe broadcast a story about two Czechs who "had seen the light and had stated they wanted nothing more to do with communism."

Names and addresses were given in the broadcast, Grew related, and continued:

"Within a very few days two prominent newspapers in Czechoslovakia came out with lead articles to the effect that these two men had been interviewed and that these men had branded our Radio Free Europe story as an infamous lie. . . .

"This was fine as far as it went, but the fact is that those two men were wholly fictitious. They simply didn't exist. Radio Free Europe seldom uses fiction but as an exception had invented this story for testing purposes.

"The Communists swallowed it hook, bait and sinker. Yes, we do get through. And thank God, the Communists have never learned to say 'ouch' quietly."

Angry Arabs Riot, Wreck U. S. Office

AMMAN, Jordan, Oct. 21 (AP)—Arabs angered by the Jordan-Israeli border situation smashed office windows of the U. S. Information Service here today and wrecked a U. S. Embassy car.

Troops of Jordan's Arab Legion, guarding American, British and French diplomatic quarters, repulsed an attempt by the demonstrators to force their way into the USIS headquarters.

The mob denounced "colonialism" in a march on the American Point Four offices, a source of technical aid for the development of this largely desert country. Finding the office closed, the Arabs ripped down notices posted on the doors.

Parole Board Denies Attempt To Release Fay

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP) — The state Parole Board denied outright today that any member of the Eisenhower administration sought a parole for labor extortionist Joey Fay.

The charge was raised as a campaign issue by Robert F. Wagner, Democratic candidate for mayor of New York.

Wagner never named the mysterious parole seeker but called him "one of the most important men in the United States—a national figure whose every word and action carry tremendous weight throughout the country."

The Parole Board called Wagner's statement "regrettable" and "irresponsible" and added flatly:

"No such person, in fact no one who had at any time been connected with the present national administration, directly or indirectly, orally or in writing, has ever communicated with this board or with any member of the board on the subject of Joseph S. Fay."

There was no immediate comment from Wagner.

In a further effort to debunk Wagner's statement, Rudolph Halley, the Liberal Party's mayoral candidate, released a list of nearly 100 names of persons he said contacted the Parole Board regarding Fay.

Some of the names already have been revealed. They included persons of local or even national prominence, but none fell within the sweeping category of Wagner's "Mr. X."

Mixup In Repairs On Leyte Probed

BOSTON, Oct. 21 (AP) — A possible mixup in repair orders rose today as a factor in the explosion which ripped through the carrier Leyte last Friday killing 36 men.

The possibility of error came when a naval shipyard civilian employe, Frederick L. Robertie, lead man machinist, testified that one valve was completely dismantled and overhauled and then returned to the ship.

When the second valve came to the workshop two days later on Oct. 6 Robertie testified he thought it was the same one.

Property Settled In Wayne Trial

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21 (AP)—The turbulent John Wayne divorce trial took an abrupt turn today toward a peaceful settlement.

The trial, one of the most bitter in movieland history, was continued until Oct. 28 to allow both sides time for negotiations on details of a property settlement.

Water Gushes From Oil Pipes To Save City

EL DORADO, Kan., Oct. 21 (AP) —Turn the valves on an oil pipeline here—and water gushes out.

It's no trick, no accident, no switch in connections. It's just a means hit upon to get water here from Wichita, 30 miles away, to stretch the drought-short water supply in this city of 13,000.

At the present time, the piped water, coming in at the rate of 1½-million gallons a day, is going in its raw state to El Dorado's two oil refineries, both large users of water.

But City Manager H. E. McMillen said there is a possibility the water will be run through the treatment plant here for public use, if the need for it develops.

Young Mother Rescues Tots

SWEET HOME, Ore., Oct. 21 (AP) — A young mother ran back into her flaming house three times early today and saved her children one-by-one.

She and one child, an infant, were severely burned.

The mother, Mrs. Robert Hand, 26, was hysterical after the rescue and neighbors had trouble piecing the whole story together.

But from them and from a sister-in-law, Mrs. George Pitts, this emerged:

Shortly before 1 a.m., while the husband was at work, fire broke out. Mrs. Hand awoke, picked up Lloyd, 4 months, dropped him once, picked him up again and tore open the door. The door opened but the handle came off and the door slammed shut behind her. She ran across the street, pounded on the door of the Clinton Hockley home, and handed in her baby.

While Hockley turned in an alarm, Mrs. Hand ran back to the house. There was no handle to open the door. A man, whose name was not learned, kicked in the door and Mrs. Hand rushed past him, into the flames, and ran out again with Johnny, 6. Putting him down, she sped back and came out with Stanley, 5.

Then, scarcely before the gathering group of spectators knew what she was doing, she dashed through the flames to bring out the fourth child, Susan. The girl suffered only singed hair. Mrs. Hand was burned over most of the upper part of her body.

Reds Ordered Money Plates Courier Says

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—Elizabeth Bentley, an admitted Soviet spy ring courier during World War II, testified today she passed Moscow-dictated orders to two former U. S. Treasury officials in a plot to aid Russia in 1943-44.

Miss Bentley named Nathan Gregory Silvermaster and Ludwig Ullman as the two who allegedly helped Russia get U. S. plates to print vast sums of wartime German occupation currency.

Testifying before a Senate investigations subcommittee, Miss Bentley described Silvermaster as the head of a Soviet spy ring operating within the government and said Ullman was a member of the same Red underground unit.

Both Silvermaster and Ullman were present at the hearing, but refused to say whether Miss Bentley's accusations were true. Both invoked their constitutional privilege, under the Fifth Amendment, against possible self-incrimination.

Sen. Mundt (R-SD), acting chairman of the subcommittee, told newsmen after the hearing:

"It seems to me we have a very clear-cut case that offers no argument or refutation."

Mundt said the refusal of Silvermaster and Ullman to deny Miss Bentley's testimony was proof of his contention that Moscow used spies inside the U. S. government to help get the plates.

Mundt said the Soviets printed at least 255 million dollars worth of occupation currency at the expense of U. S. taxpayers. Treasury officials testified yesterday they had no evidence that U. S. taxpayers footed the bill directly, although they said the printing may have added to U. S. foreign aid costs by spurring German inflation.

Trieste Meeting Seen Possibility

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—Yugoslav Ambassador Vladimir Popovic expressed confidence today a five-nation meeting would be convened soon in an effort to settle Italian-Yugoslav claims to Trieste.

He said any delay in calling such a conference would be "harmful and extremely dangerous" to peace in the Mediterranean area.

Popovic spoke to the Overseas Writers' Club.

Controversy Arises On Who Invented Doughnut Hole

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—Possibly it never occurred to you that there could be any controversy on this subject:

Who invented the hole in the doughnut, and when and where did he do it?

"There is, though," said the man across the table. "There are at least three versions. But the fellow I represent has the only true one, and, thanks to Aunt Bessie, he can prove it."

The man across the table was Richard H. Cowles, a Burlington, Vt., attorney who was in town to bring the good word to a meeting of the Maine Society. The good word for these former residents of Maine was that the hole in the doughnut not only was invented by a Maine man but he actually was in Maine when he did it.

Cowles was here as a representative of Fred "Davey" Crockett, who is a Vermont Boy Scout executive when he isn't doughnutting. Crockett was supposed to come here to address the Maine Society, but his wife was ill, so he sent his attorney.

According to Cowles, Crockett is a descendant of Capt. Hanson Crockett Gregory. "On both his mother's and his father's side," Cowles said. "I won't bother to go into details, but he says he can prove it."

Anyway, Cowles said, it was Hanson Crockett Gregory who in 1847, at the precocious age of 15, invented the doughnut.

"The story is," Cowles aid, "That he was watching the cook fry cakes, and she was having trouble getting them done in the middle. So the boy poked a hole in one, and there was the doughnut."

And the rival theories?

"Nothing to them," said Cowles cheerfully. "One is by a Massachusetts man who claims it was invented by an Indian. The Indian is supposed to have shot an arrow at a white girl who was cooking. Hit the dough instead. Fantastic."

Shatters Tradition

Stunning Blonde Lawyer Seeking Admittance Stirs Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP) — A stunning blonde in a tight-fitting knit dress today shattered an old Supreme Court tradition.

Tall, blue eyed Miss Belladonna Villines, a former Chicago lawyer, stood smiling before the nine black robed high court justices to:

1. Be admitted to practice before the court.

2. Smash the ancient, unwritten rule that no female even remotely resembling a "sweater girl" must ever divert the attention of the judges from their thoughts of law.

Miss Villines—that's her professional name—threw her shoulders back to look up at the judges on their high bench in the brief ceremony.

Her knit fawn-colored dress was set off with a lacy, knitted collar that sparkled with pale gold beads. The V-neck front was cut down about six inches. Her blonde curly hair, parted in the center in front, swirled back over her head and long tresses fell to the back of her collar.

Justice Douglas took one look, then jerked off his glasses for another long look. Justice Frankfurter, 70, kept his eyes on law books before him, until Justice Jackson nudged him. Then both looked and smiled. The other judges took the historic event without blinking.

It was only a couple of years back that a girl reporter was told she could not sit at reporters' tables before the bench if she wore a coat-type sweater. Since that publicized incident, women reporters and lawyers have dressed cautiously.

Outside the courtroom Miss Villines was told by a reporter she had cracked Supreme Court style rules. She threw up her hands in surprise and her cheeks turned red.

The reporter assured her she need not be embarrassed—that if the officials had wanted to stick to old tradition they would have given her some delicate suggestions beforehand.

Dead Man's Body Found In River

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—A man's body, all fingers missing, was found in the Hudson River today and police tentatively identified it as that of Michael Brogan, 49, missing longshore hiring boss.

Brogan vanished on the waterfront Sept. 30 during early stages of the war between the AFL-ousted International Longshoremen's Assn., and a new dock union sponsored by the AFL. He reputedly favored the new AFL group.

Godfrey Says La Rosa Fired Because He Lost "Humility"

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP) — Arthur Godfrey said today one of the reasons he fired Julius La Rosa was because the young singer had lost his "humility."

He called a news conference to explain his action as a result of the furor touched off by his on-the-air firing of La Rosa Monday and subsequent dropping of band leader Archie Bleyer from all his shows except Talent Scouts.

The husky, red haired radio-TV star, still on crutches from a hip operation last summer, told reporters that a series of incidents led to both dismissals.

But the sudden firings, he said, were precipitated by La Rosa's signing of a contract for an outside personal manager and Bleyer's making of a phonograph record of Don McNeill on the rival ABC network.

Regarding La Rosa, whom he hired upon his discharge from the Navy two years ago, Godfrey explained:

"Whenever I take anybody on my shows it's because I go a little crazy about a quality I see in them which, for lack of a better word, I call humility.

"I don't have any real artists on my show—the only one with a really good voice is Marion Marlowe. I've felt that rather than a good voice, a likeable, lovable personality is more important."

He related that he first met La Rosa while on two weeks' active duty at the Naval Air Station at Pensacola, Fla., in 1950 "and I saw this quality in Julie — his voice wasn't too good—he was the kind of fellow you wish you had 10 sons like him."

But Godfrey said La Rosa began to lose those qualities as time went by and he became a popular favorite, and that the 23-year-old singer also began to disregard instructions, including refusal to attend dancing classes all the cast had been told to attend.

South Korea Wants Peace Talks Limited

Preliminary Session Needed Only To Set Meeting Time, Place

PANMUNJOM, Thursday, Oct. 22 (AP) — South Korea yesterday came out strongly for limiting the scope of the preliminary Korean peace talks which open in this armistice village Monday.

Foreign Minister Y. T. Pyun, just returned from the United Nations in New York, told newsmen in Pusan the discussions should be confined to fixing a time and place for the Korean peace conference.

In accepting the U. S. offer of a meeting at Panmunjom, the Communists said Monday that the question of seating neutrals at the peace conference should be high on the agenda.

Special Envoy Arthur Dean was flying toward Korea to represent the U. N. Command in the preliminary talks. The Communists have not yet announced their representatives.

Pyun said South Korea might send an observer to Panmunjom to listen in on the conversations.

Mixup In Repairs On Leyte Probed

BOSTON, Oct. 21 (AP) — A possible mixup in repair orders rose today as a factor in the explosion which ripped through the carrier Leyte last Friday killing 36 men.

The possibility of error came when a naval shipyard civilian employe, Frederick L. Robertie, lead man machinist, testified that one valve was completely dismantled and overhauled and then returned to the ship.

When the second valve came to the workshop two days later on Oct. 6 Robertie testified he thought it was the same one.

Property Settled In Wayne Trial

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21 (AP)—The turbulent John Wayne divorce trial took an abrupt turn today toward a peaceful settlement.

The trial, one of the most bitter in movieland history, was continued until Oct. 28 to allow both sides time for negotiations on details of a property settlement.

Four Alarm Fire

Clouds of smoke pour from the roof and a spurt of flame shoots above dormer window as firemen climb extension ladders to fight a four-alarm blaze at Presbyterian Home for Widows and Single Ladies in Philadelphia. First reports said all of more than 200 occupants of the home were evacuated.

Parole Board Denies Attempt To Release Fay

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP) — The state Parole Board denied outright today that any member of the Eisenhower administration sought a parole for labor extortionist Joey Fay.

The charge was raised as a campaign issue by Robert F. Wagner, Democratic candidate for mayor of New York.

Wagner never named the mysterious parole seeker but called him "one of the most important men in the United States—a national figure whose every word and action carry tremendous weight throughout the country."

The Parole Board called Wagner's statement "regrettable" and "irresponsible" and added flatly:

"No such person, in fact no one who had at any time been connected with the present national administration, directly or indirectly, orally or in writing, has ever communicated with this board or with any member of the board on the subject of Joseph S. Fay."

There was no immediate comment from Wagner.

In a further effort to debunk Wagner's statement, Rudolph Halley, the Liberal Party's mayoral candidate, released a list of nearly 100 names of persons he said contacted the Parole Board regarding Fay.

Some of the names already have been revealed. They included persons of local or even national prominence, but none fell within the sweeping category of Wagner's "Mr. X."

Water Gushes From Oil Pipes To Save City

EL DORADO, Kan., Oct. 21 (AP) —Turn the valves on an oil pipeline here—and water gushes out.

It's no trick, no accident, no switch in connections. It's just a means hit upon to get water here from Wichita, 30 miles away, to stretch the drought-short water supply in this city of 13,000.

At the present time, the piped water, coming in at the rate of 1½-million gallons a day, is going in its raw state to El Dorado's two oil refineries, both large users of water.

But City Manager H. E. McMillen said there is a possibility the water will be run through the treatment plant here for public use, if the need for it develops.

Young Mother Rescues Tots

SWEET HOME, Ore., Oct. 21 (AP) — A young mother ran back into her flaming house three times early today and saved her children one-by-one.

She and one child, an infant, were severely burned.

The mother, Mrs. Robert Hand, 26, was hysterical after the rescue and neighbors had trouble piecing the whole story together.

But from them and from a sister-in-law, Mrs. George Pitts, this emerged:

Shortly before 1 a.m., while the husband was at work, fire broke out. Mrs. Hand awoke, picked up Lloyd, 4 months, dropped him once, picked him up again and tore open the door. The door opened but the handle came off and the door slammed shut behind her. She ran across the street, pounded on the door of the Clinton Hockley home, and handed in her baby.

While Hockley turned in an alarm, Mrs. Hand ran back to the house. There was no handle to open the door. A man, whose name was not learned, kicked in the door and Mrs. Hand rushed past him, into the flames, and ran out again with Johnny, 6. Putting him down, she sped back and came out with Stanley, 5.

Then, scarcely before the gathering group of spectators knew what she was doing, she dashed through the flames to bring out the fourth child, Susan. The girl suffered only singed hair. Mrs. Hand was burned over most of the upper part of her body.

Dead Man's Body Found In River

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—A man's body, all fingers missing, was found in the Hudson River today and police tentatively identified it as that of Michael Brogan, 49, missing longshore hiring boss.

Brogan vanished on the waterfront Sept. 30 during early stages of the war between the AFL-ousted International Longshoremen's Assn., and a new dock union sponsored by the AFL. He reputedly favored the new AFL group.

Reds Ordered Money Plates Courier Says

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—Elizabeth Bentley, an admitted Soviet spy ring courier during World War II, testified today she passed Moscow-dictated orders to two former U. S. Treasury officials in a plot to aid Russia in 1943-44.

Miss Bentley named Nathan Gregory Silvermaster and Ludwig Ullman as the two who allegedly helped Russia get U. S. plates to print vast sums of wartime German occupation currency.

Testifying before a Senate investigations subcommittee, Miss Bentley described Silvermaster as the head of a Soviet spy ring operating within the government and said Ullman was a member of the same Red underground unit.

Both Silvermaster and Ullman were present at the hearing, but refused to say whether Miss Bentley's accusations were true. Both invoked their constitutional privilege, under the Fifth Amendment, against possible self-incrimination.

Sen. Mundt (R-SD), acting chairman of the subcommittee, told newsmen after the hearing:

"It seems to me we have a very clear-cut case that offers no argument or refutation."

Mundt said the refusal of Silvermaster and Ullman to deny Miss Bentley's testimony was proof of his contention that Moscow used spies inside the U. S. government to help get the plates.

Mundt said the Soviets printed at least 255 million dollars worth of occupation currency at the expense of U. S. taxpayers. Treasury officials testified yesterday they had no evidence that U. S. taxpayers footed the bill directly, although they said the printing may have added to U. S. foreign aid costs by spurring German inflation.

Claims Many More Upset Than Farmers

President Breakfasts With General Dean; Fills Advisory Post

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—President Eisenhower rose warmly to the defense of his under-fire secretary of agriculture today.

Sun-tanned and high spirited after his recent swing through the Middle West and down to the Mexican border, the President said he brought back the impression some politicians are more worked up over farm problems than are the farmers and cattlemen themselves.

Meeting with newsmen for the first time since his return from Texas, Eisenhower also declared he is not going to campaign for the Republicans in any district or any state in next year's congressional election.

Breakfasts With Dean

And, fresh from a breakfast with captured-and-released Maj. Gen. William F. Dean, the President shook his head over Communist brainwashing techniques and said he wondered sometimes why so few American soldiers fell—temporarily, at least—for the Red propaganda line.

The farm problem was foremost at today's news conference. Joseph A. Fox of the Washington Star asked the big question: "It's been suggested by Sen. Young (R-ND) that Agriculture Secretary Benson should resign. Did the President care to comment?

At first Eisenhower gave the questioner one of those that-certainly-was-a-mean-curve looks. Then he grinned. Then, deadly serious, he gave his answer—that he for one is not going to be critical of Benson for failing to find a miraculous one-shot cure for all the evils that beset the farmer.

Benson, said the President warmly, is a man dedicated to America and to giving all Americans -- farmers and consumers alike — a fair break.

Eisenhower added that it's the President's responsibility to pick his top advisers, apparently meaning he could do without such volunteered advice as Young's.

Appoints Advisory Member

Later in the day, the President designated William I. Meyers, Dean of the School of Agriculture at Cornell University, as chairman of his 18-member National Agricultural Advisory Commission. He also named Ben Swigart, a Democrat and diversified farmer of Mooreland, Okla., to the commission for a term ending Jan. 31, 1955.

All except two positions on the commission have been filled, with 13 active farmers named. The group will meet at the White House Saturday with Eisenhower and Benson to start work on the final phases of the new agricultural program.

Trieste Meeting Seen Possibility

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—Yugoslav Ambassador Vladimir Popovic expressed confidence today a five-nation meeting would be convened soon in an effort to settle Italian-Yugoslav claims to Trieste.

He said any delay in calling such a conference would be "harmful and extremely dangerous" to peace in the Mediterranean area.

Popovic spoke to the Overseas Writers' Club.

Controversy Arises On Who Invented Doughnut Hole

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—Possibly it never occurred to you that there could be any controversy on this subject:

Who invented the hole in the doughnut, and when and where did he do it?

"There is, though," said the man across the table. "There are at least three versions. But the fellow I represent has the only true one, and, thanks to Aunt Bessie, he can prove it."

The man across the table was Richard H. Cowles, a Burlington, Vt., attorney who was in town to bring the good word to a meeting of the Maine Society. The good word for these former residents of Maine was that the hole in the doughnut not only was invented by a Maine man but he actually was in Maine when he did it.

Cowles was here as a representative of Fred "Davey" Crockett, who is a Vermont Boy Scout executive when he isn't doughnutting. Crockett was supposed to come here to address the Maine Society, but his wife was ill, so he sent his attorney.

According to Cowles, Crockett is a descendant of Capt. Hanson Crockett Gregory. "On both his mother's and his father's side," Cowles said. "I won't bother to go into details, but he says he can prove it."

Anyway, Cowles said, it was Hanson Crockett Gregory who in 1847, at the precocious age of 15, invented the doughnut.

"The story is," Cowles aid, "That he was watching the cook fry cakes, and she was having trouble getting them done in the middle. So the boy poked a hole in one, and there was the doughnut."

And the rival theories?

"Nothing to them," said Cowles cheerfully. "One is by a Massachusetts man who claims it was invented by an Indian. The Indian is supposed to have shot an arrow at a white girl who was cooking. Hit the dough instead. Fantastic."

Shatters Tradition

Stunning Blonde Lawyer Seeking Admittance Stirs Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP) — A stunning blonde in a tight-fitting knit dress today shattered an old Supreme Court tradition.

Tall, blue eyed Miss Belladonna Villines, a former Chicago lawyer, stood smiling before the nine black robed high court justices to:

1. Be admitted to practice before the court.

2. Smash the ancient, unwritten rule that no female even remotely resembling a "sweater girl" must ever divert the attention of the judges from their thoughts of law.

Miss Villines—that's her professional name—threw her shoulders back to look up at the judges on their high bench in the brief ceremony.

Her knit fawn-colored dress was set off with a lacy, knitted collar that sparkled with pale gold beads. The V-neck front was cut down about six inches. Her blonde curly hair, parted in the center in front, swirled back over her head and long tresses fell to the back of her collar.

Justice Douglas took one look, then jerked off his glasses for another long look. Justice Frankfurter, 70, kept his eyes on law books before him, until Justice Jackson nudged him. Then both looked and smiled. The other judges took the historic event without blinking.

It was only a couple of years back that a girl reporter was told she could not sit at reporters' tables before the bench if she wore a coat-type sweater. Since that publicized incident, women reporters and lawyers have dressed cautiously.

Outside the courtroom Miss Villines was told by a reporter she had cracked Supreme Court style rules. She threw up her hands in surprise and her cheeks turned red.

The reporter assured her she need not be embarrassed—that if the officials had wanted to stick to old tradition they would have given her some delicate suggestions beforehand.

Godfrey Says La Rosa Fired Because He Lost "Humility"

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP) — Arthur Godfrey said today one of the reasons he fired Julius La Rosa was because the young singer had lost his "humility."

He called a news conference to explain his action as a result of the furor touched off by his on-the-air firing of La Rosa Monday and subsequent dropping of band leader Archie Bleyer from all his shows except Talent Scouts.

The husky, red haired radio-TV star, still on crutches from a hip operation last summer, told reporters that a series of incidents led to both dismissals.

But the sudden firings, he said, were precipitated by La Rosa's signing of a contract for an outside personal manager and Bleyer's making of a phonograph record of Don McNeill on the rival ABC network.

Regarding La Rosa, whom he hired upon his discharge from the Navy two years ago, Godfrey explained:

"Whenever I take anybody on my shows it's because I go a little crazy about a quality I see in them which, for lack of a better word, I call humility.

"I don't have any real artists on my show—the only one with a really good voice is Marion Marlowe. I've felt that rather than a good voice, a likeable, lovable personality is more important."

He related that he first met La Rosa while on two weeks' active duty at the Naval Air Station at Pensacola, Fla., in 1950 "and I saw this quality in Julie — his voice wasn't too good—he was the kind of fellow you wish you had 10 sons like him."

But Godfrey said La Rosa began to lose those qualities as time went by and he became a popular favorite, and that the 23-year-old singer also began to disregard instructions, including refusal to attend dancing classes all the cast had been told to attend.

Grand Jury Charges Fraud, Bribery In Parking Plans

Baltimore Contractor, City Officials, Six Businessmen Blamed

By HUELL WARREN

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21 (AP) — The grand jury broke Baltimore's unique off-street parking plan wide open today with charges of bribery, corruption and fraud against two city officials, a contractor, his bookkeeper and six businessmen.

City Comptroller J. Neil McCardell was charged with taking $14,800 from Dominic Piracci, the contractor, "unlawfully and corruptly" to "influence the discretion and judgment of McCardell."

C. Edward Jones, member of the Off-Street Parking Commis- was accused of malfeasance, conspiracy and neglect of his duties. He resigned a few hours later.

Piracci, whose contracting company put up more than half the big parking garages built in downtown Baltimore as part of the program, was accused of cheating the city out of $186,532.

He and his bookkeeper, James M. Ashley, were charged with falsifying records sought by the grand jury in the course of its eight-weeks investigation.

Piracci is a long-time crony of Baltimore's Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro. One of Piracci's daughters is married to Thomas D'Alesandro, Jr.

McCardell has been the mayor's right-hand man in the D'Alesandro administration. As comptroller and member of the city's Board of Estimates he was in a position to pass on many of the contracts and business transactions in connection with the building of the garages.

Piracci was accused of getting the $186,532 by conspiring with six officers of five firms for which he built or was building garages.

The grand jury presentment said they used "false pretenses and subtle means and devices, fraud and deceit to cheat and defraud the city."

The six parking firm men included Aaron A. Baer, an assistant attorney general of Maryland.

The others were Albert Haar and Samuel Winik, partners in three operating companies; Armand L. Levinson, Milton B. Edelson, and Albert Reisfeld.

Baltimore voters provided 10 million dollars in bond money to be loaned by the Off-Street Parking Commission to private operators to buy downtown property and build the garages.

The city advanced as much as 85 per cent of the money for the projects, retaining title until the private operators pay off the loans out of their profits in 20 years.

Cornwall's brother returned him to the hospital. The Baltimore man was sent to the hospital after he attempted to hang himself in the jail on Oct. 8. Cornwall was serving 120 days in jail at the time on a series of traffic charges growing out of a police chase.

Hagerstown Man Is Named State Doctor Of Year

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21 (AP)—Maryland's family doctors tonight picked 59-year-old Hagerstown physician Dr. Bender B. Kneisley as the state's "General Practitioner of the Year."

The award was made at a banquet tonight climaxing an all-day scientific session of the academy.

The meeting was attended by some 500 Maryland doctors and senior medical students.

Dr. Louis A. M. Krause, who presented Dr. Kneisley with a bronze placque, cited the Hagerstown physician for untiring work on behalf of the community he has served for 31 years.

Dr. Krause pointed out that though Dr. Kneisley has a large practice he has found time to serve as president of the Lions Club, trustee of the First Presbyterian Church and director of the Red Cross chapter.

One of the original organizers of the Maryland Academy of General Practice, Dr. Kneisley is now its vice president.

The academy was formed to serve as a post graduate instructor to Maryland's family doctors. In today's meeting, the doctors heard papers from specialists in the various medical fields.

Dr. Lauriston L. Keown of Baltimore assumed the presidency of the academy today and the doctors elected Dr. Merrill M. Cross of Silver Spring as president-elect to take over a year from now.

Other officers elected included Dr. M. E. Sartorius Jr., Pocomoke City; Dr. Nathan E. Needle, Baltimore, and Dr. Robert L. Van Campbell, Hagerstown, vice presidents; Dr. William T. Haymes, Rita May Do Movie

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 21 (AP)—Singer Dick Haymes said today he and his wife, actress Rita Hayworth have been offered $500,000 cash to make their first motion picture together.

Haymes said the offer, from Campeon Films of Mexico City, also includes participation privileges which could amount to another $500,000.

Haymes said he and Miss Hayworth are enthusiastic about the matter and said the proposal will be studied "carefully and hopefully."

One stumbling block could be the singer's immigration troubles. Deportation proceedings were filed against him last spring when he left the continental United States to visit Miss Hayworth in Hawaii. Haymes is a native of Argentina.

New Bronchial Asthma Drug Found In Malaria Treatment

By FRANK E. CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21 (AP)—A new treatment for bronchial asthma described as "apparently the easiest, safest, least expensive and highest producer of satisfactory results"—was announced today by a Washington doctor.

Dr. Charles F. Geschickter of Georgetown University Medical Center said the key to the new treatment is a synthetic chemical born of research to produce new weapons against malaria during the last war.

He told the Maryland Academy of General Practice that the substance never was employed as an anti-malarial substance.

But he said Georgetown research had shown that incorporation of a special anti-histamine drug into the substance's chemical structure provided a new means of attacking bronchial asthma—giving complete relief up to periods of four years even after treatment is stopped.

Dr. Geschickter said that previous treatments for bronchial asthma—ranging from adrenalin to the relatively-new drugs acth and cortisone—have proved "life-saving" at times, but that all have drawbacks of one type or another.

"Doctors have saved lives from bronchial asthma with these older treatments," he said, "but they are just not good enough for routine daily use to get a high percentage of successful treatments."

In the Georgetown treatment of 285 cases, involving 155 children, 50 young adults and 80 adults over 40 years of age, he said there were only 2½ per cent failures in the first group; 5 per cent in the second; and 10 per cent in the third.

All had failed to respond to previous treatments, yet one fourth of all patients were rendered completely free of asthma symptoms for 2 to 4 years after the new treatment was completed, he reported.

Convicted Man Attempts Suicide In County Jail

TOWSON, Md., Oct. 21 (AP)—Eric Preston Randall tried to cut his own throat with a razor blade today, but the resulting damage was more like scratches than cuts, officers said.

The 26-year-old prisoner at the Baltimore County jail was convicted yesterday of being an accessory to the murder of former soldier John Metzger.

State's Attorney John E. Raine Jr. said it was not necessary to hospitalize Randall. He was treated and placed in solitary confinement instead.

Randall made the attempt this morning with a blade borrowed from another prisoner after the shaving period.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21 (AP)—Maryland's family doctors tonight picked 59-year-old Hagerstown physician Dr. Bender B. Kneisley as the state's "General Practitioner of the Year."

The award was made at a banquet tonight climaxing an all-day scientific session of the academy.

The meeting was attended by some 500 Maryland doctors and senior medical students.

Dr. Louis A. M. Krause, who presented Dr. Kneisley with a bronze placque, cited the Hagerstown physician for untiring work on behalf of the community he has served for 31 years.

Dr. Krause pointed out that though Dr. Kneisley has a large practice he has found time to serve as president of the Lions Club, trustee of the First Presbyterian Church and director of the Red Cross chapter.

One of the original organizers of the Maryland Academy of General Practice, Dr. Kneisley is now its vice president.

The academy was formed to serve as a post graduate instructor to Maryland's family doctors. In today's meeting, the doctors heard papers from specialists in the various medical fields.

Dr. Lauriston L. Keown of Baltimore assumed the presidency of the academy today and the doctors elected Dr. Merrill M. Cross of Silver Spring as president-elect to take over a year from now.

Hunter Shoots At Crow, Hits Rabbit Instead

FLINT, Mich., Oct. 21 (AP)—Lewis Barth, 45, of Davison, is checking his watch and the sights on his shotgun.

He was fined $10 and costs in Municipal Court yesterday for hunting 15 minutes before the season opened. Conservation officers arrested Barth with a rabbit in his possession.

He told them he was shooting at a crow and hit the bunny.

Archbishop Is Ill

FREIBURG, Germany, Oct. 21 (AP) — Prof. Ludwig Heilmeyer, director of medicine at the University Clinic here, has left by air for Yugoslavia to examine ailing Archbishop Alojzije Stepinac, the university said today.

The announcement did not give details.

Haymes, Rita May Do Movie

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 21 (AP)—Singer Dick Haymes said today he and his wife, actress Rita Hayworth have been offered $500,000 cash to make their first motion picture together.

Haymes said the offer, from Campeon Films of Mexico City, also includes participation privileges which could amount to another $500,000.

Haymes said he and Miss Hayworth are enthusiastic about the matter and said the proposal will be studied "carefully and hopefully."

One stumbling block could be the singer's immigration troubles. Deportation proceedings were filed against him last spring when he left the continental United States to visit Miss Hayworth in Hawaii. Haymes is a native of Argentina.

New Bronchial Asthma Drug Found In Malaria Treatment

By FRANK E. CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21 (AP)—A new treatment for bronchial asthma-described as "apparently the easiest, safest, least expensive and highest producer of satisfactory results"—was announced today by a Washington doctor.

Dr. Charles F. Geschickter of Georgetown University Medical Center said the key to the new treatment is a synthetic chemical born of research to produce new weapons against malaria during the last war.

He told the Maryland Academy of General Practice that the substance never was employed as an anti-malarial substance.

But he said Georgetown research had shown that incorporation of a special anti-histamine drug into the substance's chemical structure provided a new means of attacking bronchial asthma—giving complete relief up to periods of four years even after treatment is stopped.

Dr. Geschickter said that previous treatments for bronchial asthma—ranging from adrenalin to the relatively-new drugs acth and cortisone—have proved "life-saving" at times, but that all have drawbacks of one type or another.

"Doctors have saved lives from bronchial asthma with these older treatments," he said, "but they are just not good enough for routine daily use to get a high percentage of successful treatments."

In the Georgetown treatment of 285 cases, involving 155 children, 50 young adults and 80 adults over 40 years of age, he said there were only 2½ per cent failures in the first group; 5 per cent in the second; and 10 per cent in the third.

All had failed to respond to previous treatments, yet one fourth of all patients were rendered completely free of asthma symptoms for 2 to 4 years after the new treatment was completed, he reported.

Convicted Man Attempts Suicide In County Jail

TOWSON, Md., Oct. 21 (AP)—Eric Preston Randall tried to cut his own throat with a razor blade today, but the resulting damage was more like scratches than cuts, officers said.

The 26-year-old prisoner at the Baltimore County jail was convicted yesterday of being an accessory to the murder of former soldier John Metzger.

State's Attorney John E. Raine Jr. said it was not necessary to hospitalize Randall. He was treated and placed in solitary confinement instead.

McCoole Man Posts Bond On Morals Count

Paul Riggleman, about 39, of McCoole, was freed under $1,000 bond yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court on a morals charge involving a 15-year-old girl.

Magistrate J. Milton Dick ordered the defendant to appear before the January term of Circuit Court. A warrant secured by County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya stated that Riggleman:

"Violently and feloniously did make an assault on x x x and then and there violently and against her will feloniously did ravish and carnally know (the girl)."

Court records show the alleged act occurred October 14. Riggleman claimed he was drunk and "only slapped" the girl, the magistrate said.

Refugees And Immigration

The first trickle of refugees to enter this country under the Watkins Refugee Relief Act of 1953 is expected to arrive "in the near future." Their arrival presumably would be late this month or in the early days of November, but the State Department refuses to be more specific.

A last-minute amendment of the Watkins Bill put administration of the program under the Department's Bureau of Security and Consular Affairs, now headed by R. W. Scott McLeod. Originally the program would have come under the Foreign Operations Administration.

Much of the delay in getting the program working—the bill was signed by President Eisenhower on August 7, 1953—has been occasioned by recruitment of staff, drafting of regulations, legal analysis of the act. Then, too, the act is hedged about with stringent security provisions.

In the language of the Refugee Act, "Each assurance (by a U. S. sponsor) shall be a personal obligation of the individual citizen or citizens giving or submitting such assurances." No blanket assurances are allowed. The sponsoring individual or agency must give a personal guarantee that each immigrant will not become a ward of the community in which he settles, will not deprive residents of the community of jobs, and will not worsen housing conditions.

The new legislation further stipulates that no refugee will be granted a visa unless he presents a "certificate of readmission" to the country from which he desires to emigrate. This certificate acts as an automatic safeguard "if it is subsequently found that (the refugee) obtained a visa under this act by fraud or by misrepresenting a material fact."

Presumably many if not all of the first arrivals will be not refugees but close relatives of American citizens and alien residents in this country who had been awaiting quota entry. The law gives these categories a preferred status.

The main body of escapees, refugees, and expellees is expected to arrive beginning next January. The act does not expire until December 31, 1956. Its provisions, if fulfilled, will allow the entry into this country of 214,000 non-quota immigrants. The number in the Watkins Bill originally had been 240,000.

The price exacted by opponents of the bill in Congress, led by Senator McCarran (D., Nev.), included shaving down of the number of refugees to be admitted, tightening of the security safeguards, switching responsibility for administering the program. It has been reported, and not denied, that a further part of the price was an understanding among senators and representatives that no attempt would be made to revise the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act of 1952 at the next session or perhaps during the life of the Refugee Act.

The White House was not linked with the understanding. In the latter stages of his campaign for the presidency, General Eisenhower called for new immigration legislation. What was needed, he said at Newark on October 17, 1952, was a law that would "strike an intelligent, unbigoted balance between the immigration welfare of America and the prayerful hopes of the unhappy and oppressed."

Iran's Best Hope

So inflamed was the public mind in Iran by the extreme and unrealistic demands of deposed Premier Mossadegh that the shah is compelled to go slow in seeking a practical settlement of the oil dispute. But Iran cannot afford to wait.

Mossadegh, during his 28 months as premier, dissipated two-thirds of the nation's foreign exchange reserve. No oil was produced or marketed after the British left. The government is put to considerable expense in maintaining the idle properties, and to forego the revenues formerly paid by the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, which met more than 20 per cent of the government's budget.

The new government wants to get oil revenues flowing again without causing a popular uprising. It is therefore trying to prepare the public mind. It points out that the interests and welfare of the Iranian people demand a settlement.

An oil settlement would not solve Iran's difficulties. World oil production expanded quickly to make up for the 700,000 barrels a day formerly provided by Iran. Mossadegh's legacy of anti-Westernism and Communist intrigue may result in fresh explosions before sane rule can check inflation, unemployment and declining living standards. But getting the Abadan refineries working again would raise Iran's status from hopeless to merely desperate.

Tito Faces West

The United States, Britain and France took a calculated risk by bringing the Trieste problem to a head. Perhaps now they can work out a settlement of a situation which might otherwise have erupted at a time when they were less able to deal with it.

The future of Trieste has remained unsettled for two reasons. Russia and the West could have imposed a solution, as war victors, if they could have agreed on one. Later, Yugoslavia and Italy could have negotiated a settlement if both sides had been willing to recede from extravagant and unrealistic demands.

So it was decided to let Italian troops take over Zone A, leave Yugoslav forces in Zone B, and tell both countries to negotiate a solution. This appealed to Italy, despite a few tactless threats delivered, out of habit, by Rome. Last spring, when the Yugoslav dictator, Tito, was in London, the idea seemed to appeal to him. But now he is breathing fire and his troops, which have been facing east to watch the Soviet menace, have begun to face west.

Tito will hardly attack Zone A while American and British troops are there. The result may be that withdrawal of these troops will be postponed indefinitely.

Timely Warning

Warnings issued here and there by police officials against Halloween vandalism are both timely and temperate. Here and there waves of premature celebrations already have been reported and the resulting property damage may become serious if continued.

Fun is fun, particularly at Halloween, but malicious mischief is something else. Particularly is this true at a time when materials to repair property are high priced.

Parents have a responsibility to impress upon youngsters the difference between legitimate merry-making and the destruction of property. The smaller the task of the police in curbing irresponsible Halloweeners, the more they will be able to concentrate upon their main duty of making the city safe from criminals.

How To Keep Well

"Fallen Womb"

The position of the uterus varies somewhat normally but in one of every six women the organ is definitely displaced. In mild malpositions, there is only slight sagging; in severe cases it may be turned upside down. The uterus is pear shaped and approximates the size of a fist. As part of the reproductive system it houses, nourishes, and protects the fetus. The structure consists of two parts; the main body, or fundus, and the neck, or cervix, which protrudes into the vagina to receive the sperm. The long axis of the uterus extends from front to back and slightly downward so that the cervix meets the vagina at right angles. In most displacements, the long axis is tilted backward so that the body of the organ points toward the rectum and spine.

The uterus is held in place by the pelvic tissues and uterine ligaments. When these structures are weakened, stretched, or torn (usually in childbirth), the support is gone and sagging or tilting occurs. In other women the tissues are damaged through inflammation or disturbances in circulation. Occasionally the uterus is forced to one side or the other by the pressure of tumors, cysts, fibroids, or adhesions.

What happens when the uterus is displaced? In many instances there are no symptoms and unless the patient is examined she will never know that the organ is out of place. Others encounter a feeling of heaviness and pressure in the pelvis, which may become so marked that incapacity ensues. Menstruation also may be affected, with prolongation of the period, particularly when the ovaries are tugged out of position so that they too become congested. Delay in conception and spontaneous miscarriage also have been traced to this cause but it is questionable whether sterility will be permanent. Backache and constipation occur now and then, especially when the backward inversion is great.

Treatment is fairly well standardized. Nothing need be done when there is no discomfort or complication. A pessary may be worn to correct temporary slanting and in addition this device may be used as a test to determine whether or not the displaced uterus is responsible for symptoms. The pessary is inserted and worn for a few months and, if improvement follows the assumption is that the condition was to blame for the menstrual disorder.

Permanent relief is obtained by surgery at which time the pelvic tissues and ligaments are tightened to hold the organ in place. Removal of the uterus (hysterectomy) may be recommended when disturbances such as fibroids or other tumors coexist. The same operation also is advisable in women beyond the childbearing age because an organ that has ceased to function and is producing symptoms is better out than in. Furthermore, when the uterus is allowed to remain after middle age, a potential source of cancer is present in the body.

Can displacements be prevented? This is a moot question because the structures that support the uterus undergo terrific strain in pregnancy and labor. Improvements in obstetrical technique may help. Moreover, our young women are indulging in more healthful physical exercise which tends to develop the bones of the pelvis and the supporting structures in contrast to their grandmothers who spent more time indoors and were encouraged to avoid exercise.

GOP Solons Frown On New Tax-Collecting System; Fear Regional Authority May Invite Graft; Commissioner Defends Field Post-Review

WASHINGTON — The meeting was supposed to be strictly off the record, but Republican congressmen, in Washington between congressional sessions, recently cast a critical eye at the new tax-collection methods of the revamped Internal Revenue Service. Democrats were also a bit skeptical, though perhaps not as much as the Republicans.

One thing they grilled Treasury officials about was the new ruling by which each regional tax district is its own boss on tax settlements, doesn't have to send final adjustments to Washington for review. Some congressmen think this is an open invitation to graft, will make it easier to apply political pressure at a local level.

This column, which exposed the first graft in Internal Revenue four years ago, has endeavored to keep an eye on tax collections today and can report in detail what happened at the closed-door session.

Gruff old Uncle Dan Reed of New York, chairman of the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue and no friend of the White House, started the quizzing.

"Many members of our committee were skeptical about the reorganization plan proposed by the prior administration last year," he said. "I am particularly concerned about the fact that you are continuing the reorganization of the bureau along the lines of the plan of the former administration and are carrying decentralization of the bureau to extremes. This meeting was called to see where this plan is leading us."

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey immediately spoke up for T. Coleman Andrews, the new tax commissioner. He claimed that Andrews' reorganization plans "sounded very reasonable to us."

"When we had gone over his plans, and approved of them, we thought they looked right and like steps in advancement," defended Humphrey.

Will Maintain Control

"What I have always been interested in is to be sure that we don't go too far with decentralization," broke in Congressman John Dingell, Michigan Democrat.

"Let me give you this assurance," declared Andrews, a conscientious though inexperienced commissioner. "It has been determined as a matter of Treasury policy and the instructions have been passed on to me that the service reserves the right to reopen any case in which there was a significant error against the government or against the taxpayer."

"You are not just nobly passing out your authority to the field and forgetting about it?" demanded Dingell.

"No sir, by no means is any such thing as that contemplated. Nobody has ever said that. We intend to maintain control over every case," the tax chief promised.

"What system are you going to have to insure uniformity between the different offices?" broke in Congressman Jere Cooper, Tennessee Democrat. "Are we going to have a state of confusion because of conflicts between these different regional offices?"

"We think we are going to have more uniformity than they ever had before," Andrews blandly assured.

Watching For Graft

Chairman Reed then brought up the question of the post-audit section in Washington. This section used to double-check tax agents' work in Washington to watch for graft and uniformity of decisions, but now it has been abolished.

"I notice that the post-audit division in Washington has been abolished," snorted Chairman Reed. "It served, as I understand, as a policy agency of reviewing the reports of agents in the field. If the post-audit review in Washington is terminated, I would like to know that procedures are being taken to insure a taxpayer in one part of the country will receive the same treatment as a taxpayer living in another part of the country."

"In the first place, let me say, gentlemen, that post-review has not been abolished," Andrews replied. "It is not going to be abolished. Post-review is being moved out of Washington because we don't think this is a place to have it. We think that the proper place to have post-review is in the field where the revenue agent who did the job can sit down and intelligently discuss the case instead of sending it here to somebody in Washington who is supposedly endowed with an omniscience which no one else anywhere in the service has. It will be done in our opinion far more effectively than it has ever been done in Washington."

Better Inspection Service

"It is convenient and cheaper and everything else," chimed in Dingell of Michigan.

Andrews stressed that he was trying to build up a crackerjack inspection service to keep his agents on their toes and prevent any more tax scandals in the Internal revenue service.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — When a man is smeared by a congressional committee, do the facts actually catch up and erase the smear?

This is a question often debated here in Washington, and the best answer is that, if a man is considered innocent until proved guilty, the American public will hesitate to condemn a man on mere accusations and will await the final verdict.

Having stated the general attitude toward such cases, the question now arises whether the "Americans for Democratic Action" and the Senate Subcommittee on Elections, which did a "smear" job on Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin with innuendoes of guilt, will now undo the damage they both did and distribute as widely the latest official information which exonerates him from violation of any federal laws.

No Offenses Shown

For the Department of Justice, through a letter written by Attorney General Brownell, now declares that the Criminal Division has reviewed the charges enumerated by a Senate subcommittee but on which the committee itself refused to pass judgment. The Senate subcommittee said only that it was transmitting the report to the attorney general "for such consideration as may be within the jurisdiction and the responsibility" of the Department of Justice. The attorney general now says he has examined the report to see if any federal offenses had been committed. He states:

"The report fails to show the commission of any such offenses. The subcommittee spent a great deal of time, effort and money in its investigations made prior to the preparation of the report and there is no reason to believe that new evidence would be forthcoming from further investigation."

So the attorney general declares there is no reason to pass the data on to the grand jury. He adds that any other questions relating to income taxes would have to be passed upon by the Treasury Department. Everybody knows that the treasury under the Truman administration had access to the same facts about the Wisconsin senator's tax returns and found nothing on which to base any accusation. So it is logical to infer that the Treasury, which rarely discusses anybody's income tax returns unless there is an irregularity involving fraud, will consider the Truman administration's judgment to be final.

The attorney general took occasion also to write a letter disposing of charges of law violation in the Maryland senatorial election of 1950. He declared that "all further lines of inquiry, as suggested by the report, have been exhaustively followed, and additional investigative leads pursued," and it is "our conclusion that the evidence fails to establish the commission of any public offense defined by federal statute."

Basis For Questioning

How far will this exoneration get with the critics of Senator McCarthy, especially those who have insisted in other cases that they believe in considering a man innocent of crime until proved guilty? Perhaps some of them will argue that the Wisconsin senator has himself accused other people through his legislative inquiries. But, despite all the furor about harm to innocent persons who have been accused of having Communist connections, not a single case has ever been proved against the Wisconsin senator of bringing anybody before his committee who had not in some way been mixed up with Communist organizations. The extent of this association, however, when met with frankness by the witness has brought no public condemnation. Those who have used the Fifth Amendment to refuse to testify or those in government service whose cases have been acted on adversely by loyalty review boards have been the object of criticism. It must be noted also that in virtually every case, even those not dismissed, there was a basis for questioning Communist connections or sympathies, and these cases are usually not publicized at all.

Conceding, on the other hand, that the Wisconsin senator may have made some mistakes in certain instances, two wrongs do not make a single right, and it will be interesting to see whether the distribution of many thousands of copies of charges against Senator McCarthy by the "Americans for Democratic Action" will be followed now by the distribution by this organization of an equal number of copies of the letters of exoneration from the Department of Justice.

Maybe if this is done, it will have a salutary effect on all extremists and produce an era of better feeling on the subject of congressional inquiries. For, if the harm done can be offset by proper corrective measures exonerating the innocent, there will be a greater concentration on getting at the really guilty.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Nor Bastion Nor Mush

The further you go in the Far East, the more impatient you become with the dollops of dangerously misleading drivel that are being handed out at home on the subject of the Far Eastern situation.

Take this country. Many months ago, the United States was told that Japanese rearmament was guaranteed by the famous peace treaty negotiated by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. Most Americans who think about foreign affairs at all, already think of Japan as a strong point of the free world in the Far Pacific. Indeed the phrase, "Japanese bastion," has recently become a cliche.

The truth is altogether different. Japan is not a mess of rancid mush, like some other countries that could be mentioned. But Japan is not a bastion either, and Japan will not be a bastion for so long that this kind of phony talk ought to be sternly ruled out at present.

To start with, wily old Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida, with whom Secretary Dulles negotiated his treaty, does not really mueh like the idea of Japanese rearmament. Like 95 per cent of the other political leaders of postwar Japan, Yoshida has acutely unhappy memories of Japanese militarism. Today he finds it hard to conceive of Japanese armed forces genuinely subject to civilian control.

By the same token, Yoshida cannot even begin to think about the kind of Japanese rearmament which would safeguard these islands from the local power of the Soviet Union. That is a job for the United States, if only because Japan does not have the resources to do the job on the necessary scale.

Will Determine Rearmament

As to China, Yoshida's imagination stretches no further than the imaginations of most other free world leaders. He quite obviously finds it hard to believe that China's vast ancient and resistant human mass will ever be transformed into a disciplined modern slave state. In particular, he really cannot believe that China, historically a military vacuum, is now being forged into the chief military power in the Far East.

Finally, Japan is in a terrible economic mess, threatened with runaway inflation and direly needing to balance her budget. Why Secretary Dulles, when he was last here, said the United States was having the same sort of trouble! (At this point the astute old man's eyes twinkle just a bit wickedly.) Well, the Americans, who are cutting their own military budget, ought to remember that Jap problem is far worse!

This line of reasoning, which is fairly common among the leaders here in Tokyo, does not mean that there is going to be no Japanese rearmament. But for some time to come, this attitude will determine the kind of rearmament and the scope of rearmament that Japan will attempt.

The national safety force that Japan possesses today is a beginning of sorts, but it is an odd military force. It comprises, over all, about 110,000 officers and men, organized in five divisions, well armed, well trained, and with good morale. But the pretense is still maintained that the sole task of the national safety force is to suppress internal disorder. Hence its entire staff is composed of civilians. It is as though Under Secretary of Defense Roger Kyes were chairman of the Joint Chiefs, instead of being what he is.

Low Expansion Rate

A temporary alliance has now been made between Prime Minister Yoshida and the leader of the second largest conservative party, Mamoru Shigemitsu. Yoshida's liberals and Shigemitsu's progressives are now joined in renaming the safety force a "National Defense Force" and voting to expand the force for its new mission. But the rates of expansion being discussed are almost ludicrously low. The question is, apparently, whether to add 20,000 men or 40,000 men the first year. According to a report the answer will depend on the extent of American aid.

Before an effort can be launched to create a force of serious size, moreover, some way must be found to get over the hurdle of Article nine of the Japanese Constitution. This is the article, grandiloquently inserted by General Douglas MacArthur, by which the Japanese renounced armaments in any form, even for purposes of self defense. Even the existing national safety force is a plain violation of this article.

Almost the whole of the Japanese political left has now become passionately addicted to this MacArthur legacy. On the right, even those Japanese who clearly see the need for self defense, are inclined to shake their heads and say the Americans have got to admit they were wrong if the constitution is to be altered. Surprising numbers of Japanese are given to suggesting that the best thing would be for General MacArthur to announce, solemnly and publicly, that in this one case at least he departed from infallibility.

Prime Minister Yoshida meanwhile says cheerfully that it will be a long time before constitutional changes can even be thought about. Maybe the pressure on the Japanese leaders will produce faster action. But the fact remains that Japanese rearmament is not likely to make any serious improvement in the Asia power balance in less than four or five years. That fact says much—and much that official Washington is not admitting—about the future American role here.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Anti-American Blockade

What is the advantage to the American people when the impression is being given that every other country behaves properly but only the United States is wicked? If this sort of thing is done by some alien propaganda, it is understandable. In our era, it is still each nation for itself. In no other country does a large body of citizens indicate a subordination of their own country to another. In the United States, we suffer from pro-British, pro-French, pro-Russian, pro- any-place Americans to whom their own country is always second.

Nowadays, American citizens, and some of them in high places, when they discuss the movement of goods, like to make Americans feel ashamed, particularly those who, like myself, believe that a free market would be more beneficial than all the aid that we have thus far given away for nothing, but the free movement of goods must not be limited to the United States.

The fact is that many of the countries which are most noisome in demanding not only a reduction of the American tariff but a revision of our customs procedures, are themselves engaged in blocking the international movement of goods and have, in some respects, established a blockade against our exports.

The worst method employed is the quota system. In Great Britain, West Germany, France, Japan and other countries, governments have estblished quotas of imports which destroy the free market. Except for specified farm products, the United States admits any and all goods, but charges a customs tariff. The United States has no quota for imports.

In Great Britain, it is practically impossible to buy an American-made and assembled automobile, radio or TV set. Other commodities are limited to small, token quantities.

Another impediment to free trade is the licensing of imports. Great Britain, West Germany, France, Brazil and many other countries require licenses for imports. The licensing system is particularly evil because trade is used as a political weapon by the government. The people of these countries have no right to employ their own earnings to purchase whatever they may choose to use.

The United States does not employ a licensing system over imports. It is permissible to make purchases from abroad, provided a tariff is paid and the commodity will not impair the vegetation of our country or the health of our people.

Great Britain and France engage in preferential tariffs; that is, goods from countries within the British Empire or the Commonwealth are charged a reduced tariff in Great Britain; a similar procedure is followed by France with regard to French colonies. All preferential tariffs are aimed at the reduction of trade with the United States.

The situation, as regards West Germany, is particularly difficult to understand. That country has been, for a prolonged period, aided and supported by the United States. For a time, the United States was supposed to have a dominant voice in the affairs of West Germany. Nevertheless, under the West German licensing system, American goods are kept out of that country if the goods can be found anywhere else. For instance, preference is shown Argentinian, Mexican and Egyptian cotton even when the American taxpayers' money is used to make the purchase. American automobiles, radios, refrigerators and other commodities are never licensed.

The American automobile industry is not particularly concerned about this, as it has invested American capital abroad in factories, assembly plants, and in foreign companies, producing a locally-made commodity by cheaper foreign labor. The judgment of several companies and personalities in that industry is therefore unacceptable because their bias is that it is not only profitable to manufacture abroad but that it will one day be profitable to import foreign-made American cars into this country. While such threats are today a menace to no one, it could happen that when the price of an American car manufactured in Detroit is too high, our market will absorb the same car made in a European country but which can be sold more cheaply here.

This story of the barriers set up against American goods in foreign markets needs to be thoroughly investigated and the results should be made public. Today many European countries are conducting a propaganda against the American tariff and our customs procedures. But they do not look at their own quotas, licenses and tariffs, which are even more destructive of a free market.

Refugees And Immigration

The first trickle of refugees to enter this country under the Watkins Refugee Relief Act of 1953 is expected to arrive "in the near future." Their arrival presumably would be late this month or in the early days of November, but the State Department refuses to be more specific.

A last-minute amendment of the Watkins Bill put administration of the program under the Department's Bureau of Security and Consular Affairs, now headed by R. W. Scott McLeod. Originally the program would have come under the Foreign Operations Administration.

Much of the delay in getting the program working—the bill was signed by President Eisenhower on August 7, 1953—has been occasioned by recruitment of staff, drafting of regulations, legal analysis of the act. Then, too, the act is hedged about with stringent security provisions.

In the language of the Refugee Act, "Each assurance (by a U. S. sponsor) shall be a personal obligation of the individual citizen or citizens giving or submitting such assurances." No blanket assurances are allowed. The sponsoring individual or agency must give a personal guarantee that each immigrant will not become a ward of the community in which he settles, will not deprive residents of the community of jobs, and will not worsen housing conditions.

The new legislation further stipulates that no refugee will be granted a visa unless he presents a "certificate of readmission" to the country from which he desires to emigrate. This certificate acts as an automatic safeguard "if it is subsequently found that (the refugee) obtained a visa under this act by fraud or by misrepresenting a material fact."

Presumably many if not all of the first arrivals will be not refugees but close relatives of American citizens and alien residents in this country who had been awaiting quota entry. The law gives these categories a preferred status.

The main body of escapees, refugees, and expellees is expected to arrive beginning next January. The act does not expire until December 31, 1956. Its provisions, if fulfilled, will allow the entry into this country of 214,000 non-quota immigrants. The number in the Watkins Bill originally had been 240,000.

The price exacted by opponents of the bill in Congress, led by Senator McCarran (D., Nev.), included shaving down of the number of refugees to be admitted, tightening of the security safeguards, switching responsibility for administering the program. It has been reported, and not denied, that a further part of the price was an understanding among senators and representatives that no attempt would be made to revise the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act of 1952 at the next session or perhaps during the life of the Refugee Act.

The White House was not linked with the understanding. In the latter stages of his campaign for the presidency, General Eisenhower called for new immigration legislation. What was needed, he said at Newark on October 17, 1952, was a law that would "strike an intelligent, unbigoted balance between the immigration welfare of America and the prayerful hopes of the unhappy and oppressed."

Iran's Best Hope

So inflamed was the public mind in Iran by the extreme and unrealistic demands of deposed Premier Mossadegh that the shah is compelled to go slow in seeking a practical settlement of the oil dispute. But Iran cannot afford to wait.

Mossadegh, during his 28 months as premier, dissipated two-thirds of the nation's foreign exchange reserve. No oil was produced or marketed after the British left. The government is put to considerable expense in maintaining the idle properties, and to forego the revenues formerly paid by the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, which met more than 20 per cent of the government's budget.

The new government wants to get oil revenues flowing again without causing a popular uprising. It is therefore trying to prepare the public mind. It points out that the interests and welfare of the Iranian people demand a settlement.

An oil settlement would not solve Iran's difficulties. World oil production expanded quickly to make up for the 700,000 barrels a day formerly provided by Iran. Mossadegh's legacy of anti-Westernism and Communist intrigue may result in fresh explosions before sane rule can check inflation, unemployment and declining living standards. But getting the Abadan refineries working again would raise Iran's status from hopeless to merely desperate.

Tito Faces West

The United States, Britain and France took a calculated risk by bringing the Trieste problem to a head. Perhaps now they can work out a settlement of a situation which might otherwise have erupted at a time when they were less able to deal with it.

The future of Trieste has remained unsettled for two reasons. Russia and the West could have imposed a solution, as war victors, if they could have agreed on one. Later, Yugoslavia and Italy could have negotiated a settlement if both sides had been willing to recede from extravagant and unrealistic demands.

So it was decided to let Italian troops take over Zone A, leave Yugoslav forces in Zone B, and tell both countries to negotiate a solution. This appealed to Italy, despite a few tactless threats delivered, out of habit, by Rome. Last spring, when the Yugoslav dictator, Tito, was in London, the idea seemed to appeal to him. But now he is breathing fire and his troops, which have been facing east to watch the Soviet menace, have begun to face west.

Tito will hardly attack Zone A while American and British troops are there. The result may be that withdrawal of these troops will be postponed indefinitely.

Timely Warning

Warnings issued here and there by police officials against Halloween vandalism are both timely and temperate. Here and there waves of premature celebrations already have been reported and the resulting property damage may become serious if continued.

Fun is fun, particularly at Halloween, but malicious mischief is something else. Particularly is this true at a time when materials to repair property are high priced.

Parents have a responsibility to impress upon youngsters the difference between legitimate merry-making and the destruction of property. The smaller the task of the police in curbing irresponsible Halloweeners, the more they will be able to concentrate upon their main duty of making the city safe from criminals.

"Fallen Womb"

The position of the uterus varies somewhat normally but in one of every six women the organ is definitely displaced. In mild malpositions, there is only slight sagging; in severe cases it may be turned upside down. The uterus is pear shaped and approximates the size of a fist. As part of the reproductive system it houses, nourishes, and protects the fetus. The structure consists of two parts; the main body, or fundus, and the neck, or cervix, which protrudes into the vagina to receive the sperm. The long axis of the uterus extends from front to back and slightly downward so that the cervix meets the vagina at right angles. In most displacements, the long axis is tilted backward so that the body of the organ points toward the rectum and spine.

The uterus is held in place by the pelvic tissues and uterine ligaments. When these structures are weakened, stretched, or torn (usually in childbirth), the support is gone and sagging or tilting occurs. In other women the tissues are damaged through inflammation or disturbances in circulation. Occasionally the uterus is forced to one side or the other by the pressure of tumors, cysts, fibroids, or adhesions.

What happens when the uterus is displaced? In many instances there are no symptoms and unless the patient is examined she will never know that the organ is out of place. Others encounter a feeling of heaviness and pressure in the pelvis, which may become so marked that incapacity ensues. Menstruation also may be affected, with prolongation of the period, particularly when the ovaries are tugged out of position so that they too become congested. Delay in conception and spontaneous miscarriage also have been traced to this cause but it is questionable whether sterility will be permanent. Backache and constipation occur now and then, especially when the backward inversion is great.

Treatment is fairly well standardized. Nothing need be done when there is no discomfort or complication. A pessary may be worn to correct temporary slanting and in addition this device may be used as a test to determine whether or not the displaced uterus is responsible for symptoms. The pessary is inserted and worn for a few months and, if improvement follows the assumption is that the condition was to blame for the menstrual disorder.

Permanent relief is obtained by surgery at which time the pelvic tissues and ligaments are tightened to hold the organ in place. Removal of the uterus (hysterectomy) may be recommended when disturbances such as fibroids or other tumors coexist. The same operation also is advisable in women beyond the childbearing age because an organ that has ceased to function and is producing symptoms is better out than in. Furthermore, when the uterus is allowed to remain after middle age, a potential source of cancer is present in the body.

Can displacements be prevented? This is a moot question because the structures that support the uterus undergo terrific strain in pregnancy and labor. Improvements in obstetrical technique may help. Moreover, our young women are indulging in more healthful physical exercise which tends to develop the bones of the pelvis and the supporting structures in contrast to their grandmothers who spent more time indoors and were encouraged to avoid exercise.

GOP Solons Frown On New Tax-Collecting System; Fear Regional Authority May Invite Graft; Commissioner Defends Field Post-Review

WASHINGTON — The meeting was supposed to be strictly off the record, but Republican congressmen, in Washington between congressional sessions, recently cast a critical eye at the new tax-collection methods of the revamped Internal Revenue Service. Democrats were also a bit skeptical, though perhaps not as much as the Republicans.

One thing they grilled Treasury officials about was the new ruling by which each regional tax district is its own boss on tax settlements, doesn't have to send final adjustments to Washington for review. Some congressmen think this is an open invitation to graft, will make it easier to apply political pressure at a local level.

This column, which exposed the first graft in Internal Revenue four years ago, has endeavored to keep an eye on tax collections today and can report in detail what happened at the closed-door session.

Gruff old Uncle Dan Reed of New York, chairman of the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue and no friend of the White House, started the quizzing.

"Many members of our committee were skeptical about the reorganization plan proposed by the prior administration last year," he said. "I am particularly concerned about the fact that you are continuing the reorganization of the bureau along the lines of the plan of the former administration and are carrying decentralization of the bureau to extremes. This meeting was called to see where this plan is leading us."

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey immediately spoke up for T. Coleman Andrews, the new tax commissioner. He claimed that Andrews' reorganization plans "sounded very reasonable to us."

"When we had gone over his plans, and approved of them, we thought they looked right and like steps in advancement," defended Humphrey.

Will Maintain Control

"What I have always been interested in is to be sure that we don't go too far with decentralization," broke in Congressman John Dingell, Michigan Democrat.

"Let me give you this assurance," declared Andrews, a conscientious though inexperienced commissioner. "It has been determined as a matter of Treasury policy and the instructions have been passed on to me that the service reserves the right to reopen any case in which there was a significant error against the government or against the taxpayer."

"You are not just nobly passing out your authority to the field and forgetting about it?" demanded Dingell.

"No sir, by no means is any such thing as that contemplated. Nobody has ever said that. We intend to maintain control over every case," the tax chief promised.

"What system are you going to have to insure uniformity between the different offices?" broke in Congressman Jere Cooper, Tennessee Democrat. "Are we going to have a state of confusion because of conflicts between these different regional offices?"

"We think we are going to have more uniformity than they ever had before," Andrews blandly assured.

Watching For Graft

Chairman Reed then brought up the question of the post-audit section in Washington. This section used to double-check tax agents' work in Washington to watch for graft and uniformity of decisions, but now it has been abolished.

"I notice that the post-audit division in Washington has been abolished," snorted Chairman Reed. "It served, as I understand, as a policy agency of reviewing the reports of agents in the field. If the post-audit review in Washington is terminated, I would like to know that procedures are being taken to insure a taxpayer in one part of the country will receive the same treatment as a taxpayer living in another part of the country."

"In the first place, let me say, gentlemen, that post-review has not been abolished," Andrews replied. "It is not going to be abolished. Post-review is being moved out of Washington because we don't think this is a place to have it. We think that the proper place to have post-review is in the field where the revenue agent who did the job can sit down and intelligently discuss the case instead of sending it here to somebody in Washington who is supposedly endowed with an omniscience which no one else anywhere in the service has. It will be done in our opinion far more effectively than it has ever been done in Washington."

Better Inspection Service

"It is convenient and cheaper and everything else," chimed in Dingell of Michigan.

Andrews stressed that he was trying to build up a crackerjack inspection service to keep his agents on their toes and prevent any more tax scandals in the Internal revenue service.

Will Determine Rearmament

As to China, Yoshida's imagination stretches no further than the imaginations of most other free world leaders. He quite obviously finds it hard to believe that China's vast ancient and resistant human mass will ever be transformed into a disciplined modern slave state. In particular, he really cannot believe that China, historically a military vacuum, is now being forged into the chief military power in the Far East.

Finally, Japan is in a terrible economic mess, threatened with runaway inflation and direly needing to balance her budget. Why Secretary Dulles, when he was last here, said the United States was having the same sort of trouble! (At this point the astute old man's eyes twinkle just a bit wickedly.) Well, the Americans, who are cutting their own military budget, ought to remember that Jap problem is far worse!

This line of reasoning, which is fairly common among the leaders here in Tokyo, does not mean that there is going to be no Japanese rearmament. But for some time to come, this attitude will determine the kind of rearmament and the scope of rearmament that Japan will attempt.

The national safety force that Japan possesses today is a beginning of sorts, but it is an odd military force. It comprises, over all, about 110,000 officers and men, organized in five divisions, well armed, well trained, and with good morale. But the pretense is still maintained that the sole task of the national safety force is to suppress internal disorder. Hence its entire staff is composed of civilians. It is as though Under Secretary of Defense Roger Kyes were chairman of the Joint Chiefs, instead of being what he is.

Low Expansion Rate

A temporary alliance has now been made between Prime Minister Yoshida and the leader of the second largest conservative party, Mamoru Shigemitsu. Yoshida's liberals and Shigemitsu's progressives are now joined in renaming the safety force a "National Defense Force" and voting to expand the force for its new mission. But the rates of expansion being discussed are almost ludicrously low. The question is, apparently, whether to add 20,000 men or 40,000 men the first year. According to a report the answer will depend on the extent of American aid.

Before an effort can be launched to create a force of serious size, moreover, some way must be found to get over the hurdle of Article nine of the Japanese Constitution. This is the article, grandiloquently inserted by General Douglas MacArthur, by which the Japanese renounced armaments in any form, even for purposes of self defense. Even the existing national safety force is a plain violation of this article.

Almost the whole of the Japanese political left has now become passionately addicted to this MacArthur legacy. On the right, even those Japanese who clearly see the need for self defense, are inclined to shake their heads and say the Americans have got to admit they were wrong if the constitution is to be altered. Surprising numbers of Japanese are given to suggesting that the best thing would be for General MacArthur to announce, solemnly and publicly, that in this one case at least he departed from infallibility.

Prime Minister Yoshida meanwhile says cheerfully that it will be a long time before constitutional changes can even be thought about. Maybe the pressure on the Japanese leaders will produce faster action. But the fact remains that Japanese rearmament is not likely to make any serious improvement in the Asia power balance in less than four or five years. That fact says much—and much that official Washington is not admitting—about the future American role here.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Anti-American Blockade

What is the advantage to the American people when the impression is being given that every other country behaves properly but only the United States is wicked? If this sort of thing is done by some alien propaganda, it is understandable. In our era, it is still each nation for itself. In no other country does a large body of citizens indicate a subordination of their own country to another. In the United States, we suffer from pro-British, pro-French, pro-Russian, pro- any-place Americans to whom their own country is always second.

Nowadays, American citizens, and some of them in high places, when they discuss the movement of goods, like to make Americans feel ashamed, particularly those who, like myself, believe that a free market would be more beneficial than all the aid that we have thus far given away for nothing, but the free movement of goods must not be limited to the United States.

The fact is that many of the countries which are most noisome in demanding not only a reduction of the American tariff but a revision of our customs procedures, are themselves engaged in blocking the international movement of goods and have, in some respects, established a blockade against our exports.

The worst method employed is the quota system. In Great Britain, West Germany, France, Japan and other countries, governments have estblished quotas of imports which destroy the free market. Except for specified farm products, the United States admits any and all goods, but charges a customs tariff. The United States has no quota for imports.

In Great Britain, it is practically impossible to buy an American-made and assembled automobile, radio or TV set. Other commodities are limited to small, token quantities.

Another impediment to free trade is the licensing of imports. Great Britain, West Germany, France, Brazil and many other countries require licenses for imports. The licensing system is particularly evil because trade is used as a political weapon by the government. The people of these countries have no right to employ their own earnings to purchase whatever they may choose to use.

The United States does not employ a licensing system over imports. It is permissible to make purchases from abroad, provided a tariff is paid and the commodity will not impair the vegetation of our country or the health of our people.

Great Britain and France engage in preferential tariffs; that is, goods from countries within the British Empire or the Commonwealth are charged a reduced tariff in Great Britain; a similar procedure is followed by France with regard to French colonies. All preferential tariffs are aimed at the reduction of trade with the United States.

The situation, as regards West Germany, is particularly difficult to understand. That country has been, for a prolonged period, aided and supported by the United States. For a time, the United States was supposed to have a dominant voice in the affairs of West Germany. Nevertheless, under the West German licensing system, American goods are kept out of that country if the goods can be found anywhere else. For instance, preference is shown Argentinian, Mexican and Egyptian cotton even when the American taxpayers' money is used to make the purchase. American automobiles, radios, refrigerators and other commodities are never licensed.

The American automobile industry is not particularly concerned about this, as it has invested American capital abroad in factories, assembly plants, and in foreign companies, producing a locally-made commodity by cheaper foreign labor. The judgment of several companies and personalities in that industry is therefore unacceptable because their bias is that it is not only profitable to manufacture abroad but that it will one day be profitable to import foreign-made American cars into this country. While such threats are today a menace to no one, it could happen that when the price of an American car manufactured in Detroit is too high, our market will absorb the same car made in a European country but which can be sold more cheaply here.

This story of the barriers set up against American goods in foreign markets needs to be thoroughly investigated and the results should be made public. Today many European countries are conducting a propaganda against the American tariff and our customs procedures. But they do not look at their own quotas, licenses and tariffs, which are even more destructive of a free market.

Simpson Seeks Oil Restrictions

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—Rep. Simpson (R-Pa) promised today to continue to fight for restrictions on the importing of foreign residual oil.

"To check the deluge of foreign residual oil that has usurped a considerable portion of coal's legitimate markets is not going to be an easy task—as witness our efforts in the last session of Congress. But we have made progress, and we shall not stop until we have achieved our objective.

"Foreign residual oil must be curtailed through legislative action. . . So long as it (residual oil) can be sold at whatever price is necessary to undercut coal, quota restrictions alone can do the job for us."

Simpson, a member of the House Ways and Means Committee, which considers tariff and other import matters, said imports of residual oil—an inexpensive product of the petroleum refining process—reached a record of 129 million barrels last year and "figures to date for 1953 indicate that the total for the 12 months ending next Dec. 31 will be in the vicinity of 139 million barrels."

Never let boiled potatoes stand in the water when they are done, or they will be waterlogged. Drain them at once and let them steam dry for a few minutes before serving or mashing.

Man Given One-Year Term For Violating His Parole

Joseph Koelker, 214 Charles Street, yesterday was sentenced by Associate Judge George Henderson in Allegany County Circuit to one year in the Maryland House of Correction on a charge of violating his parole by being an habitual drunkard.

Koelker's year will date from August 11 as he has been confined in the County Jail since then awaiting his appeal. Magistrate Donald W. Mason had given Koelker a similar sentence from which he appealed. Judge Henderson found Koelker guilty Tuesday but deferred passing sentence until yesterday.

Two jury trials are scheduled Friday in appeal cases.

Louis Donious, Bowman's Addition, remained true to form yesterday when he appeared before Associated Judge Morgan C. Harris and prayed a jury trial.

He appealed the sentence handed him in Cumberland Trial Magistrates Court on a charge of theft from the B&O Railroad.

To Represent Himself

Donious in several past appearances in court acted as his own lawyer and yesterday announced he again would represent himself.

Another jury trial scheduled Friday is the case of the State vs. Hobart McKinley Ray, Iron's Mountain, who has appealed a conviction on a charge of non-support of his minor children.

Only one criminal appeal case was heard yesterday from the docket scheduled. Calvin Lease of Beechers Avenue, Eckhart, was found not guilty of failing to stop his auto after it hit an unattended vehicle belonging to Melvin Muir of Eckhart. Originally he had been found guilty in Frostburg Trial Magistrates Court.

Also postponed was the case against Richard Reeves of Westernport. Reeves was acquitted by Juvenile Magistrate Alban C. Thompson on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor but State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher appealed the case.

Appeals Withdrawn

A postponement was set in the case of the State vs. Frank L. Rodecap, RD 2, this city, who had been found guilty in Trial Magistrates Court on charges of violating state motor vehicle laws.

Seven men withdrew their appeals when time came for their trial today and thereby agreed to accept the verdict handed them in the lower courts.

They were Charles E. Yost, Baltimore, violations of two state motor vehicle laws: Raymond Hansel, RD 1, violation of a state motor vehicle law; Russell Slider, RD 4, spotlight hunting of deer; and Lacy Simmons, Spring Gap, carrying a loaded gun in his car and spotlight hunting of deer, and William Earl Ritchie, two state motor vehicle law violations.

Dale Orville Campbell of Mt. Savage dropped his appeal of a reckless driving conviction, in which Magistrate J. Milton Dick had fined him $25. Charles A. Morgan, 183 Mechanic Street, Frostburg, dismissed his appeal of a driving conviction in which he had been fined $100 by Magistrate Fred Crowe in Frostburg. In both cases the lower judgments were affirmed with the addition of Circuit Court Costs.

Others Dismissed

Cases against several other persons were dismissed by Assistant State's Attorney James Getty.

These involved Clarence F. Fulk, 532 Cumberland Street, who had been convicted by Cresaptown Magistrate William E. Meagher of destroying property of the Cumberland Rifle Club, Fairgo; Harold Leon Beal, RD 1, LaVale, fined by Substitue Magistrate Morris Baron for reckless driving; Clement Kessler and Wanetta Miller, both 478 Baltimore Avenue, who had been convicted by Juvenile Magistrate Alban C. Thompson on a charge of contributing to delinqueny of children, and Leonard Bible, Irons Mountain, who had appealed a one year sentence in the Maryland House of Correction given him by Magistrate Dick on an assault charge.

Cases continued until a later date included the appeals of Cecil N. Welsh, of Deer Park, hunting with improper license and hunting with an illegal shotgun, and John L. Ort, 810 Elmwood Avenue, this city, exceeding 50 miles per hour in his auto.

ON THE COST OF MEDICAL CARE

Many of the current prolonged discussions on the high cost of medical care are without foundation. Although it is true that drugs and medical services cost more now than they did ten years ago, the rise in cost has not been out of proportion to the increase in the prices of other commodities and services.

The cost of a physician's call is no greater than that of a plumber or an electrician. The cost of the medicine he prescribes is no higher than the cost of a valve, a faucet, or an electrical outlet.

Moreover, it must be remembered that money cannot buy good health. It is priceless. No finer, no more economical, no more efficient system of medical care has ever been devised than that which this nation now enjoys.

Man Given One-Year Term For Violating His Parole

Joseph Koelker, 214 Charles Street, yesterday was sentenced by Associate Judge George Henderson in Allegany County Circuit to one year in the Maryland House of Correction on a charge of violating his parole by being an habitual drunkard.

Koelker's year will date from August 11 as he has been confined in the County Jail since then awaiting his appeal. Magistrate Donald W. Mason had given Koelker a similar sentence from which he appealed. Judge Henderson found Koelker guilty Tuesday but deferred passing sentence until yesterday.

Two jury trials are scheduled Friday in appeal cases.

Louis Donious, Bowman's Addition, remained true to form yesterday when he appeared before Associated Judge Morgan C. Harris and prayed a jury trial.

He appealed the sentence handed him in Cumberland Trial Magistrates Court on a charge of theft from the B&O Railroad.

To Represent Himself

Donious in several past appearances in court acted as his own lawyer and yesterday announced he again would represent himself.

Another jury trial scheduled Friday is the case of the State vs. Hobart McKinley Ray, Iron's Mountain, who has appealed a conviction on a charge of non-support of his minor children.

Only one criminal appeal case was heard yesterday from the docket scheduled. Calvin Lease of Beechers Avenue, Eckhart, was found not guilty of failing to stop his auto after it hit an unattended vehicle belonging to Melvin Muir of Eckhart. Originally he had been found guilty in Frostburg Trial Magistrates Court.

Also postponed was the case against Richard Reeves of Westernport. Reeves was acquitted by Juvenile Magistrate Alban C. Thompson on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor but State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher appealed the case.

Appeals Withdrawn

A postponement was set in the case of the State vs. Frank L. Rodecap, RD 2, this city, who had been found guilty in Trial Magistrates Court on charges of violating state motor vehicle laws.

Seven men withdrew their appeals when time came for their trial today and thereby agreed to accept the verdict handed them in the lower courts.

They were Charles E. Yost, Baltimore, violations of two state motor vehicle laws· Raymond Hansel, RD 1, violation of a state motor vehicle law; Russell Slider, RD 4, spotlight hunting of deer; and Lacy Simmons, Spring Gap, carrying a loaded gun in his car and spotlight hunting of deer, and William Earl Ritchie, two state motor vehicle law violations.

Dale Orville Campbell of Mt. Savage dropped his appeal of a reckless driving conviction, in which Magistrate J. Milton Dick had fined him $25. Charles A. Morgan, 183 Mechanic Street, Frostburg, dismissed his appeal of a driving conviction in which he had been fined $100 by Magistrate Fred Crowe in Frostburg. In both cases the lower judgments were affirmed with the addition of Circuit Court Costs.

Others Dismissed

Cases against several other persons were dismissed by Assistant State's Attorney James Getty.

These involved Clarence F. Fulk, 532 Cumberland Street, who had been convicted by Cresaptown Magistrate William E. Meagher of destroying property of the Cumberland Rifle Club, Fairgo; Harold Leon Beal, RD 1, LaVale, fined by Substitue Magistrate Morris Baron for reckless driving; Clement Kessler and Wanetta Miller, both 478 Baltimore Avenue, who had been convicted by Juvenile Magistrate Alban C. Thompson on a charge of contributing to delinqueny of children, and Leonard Bible, Irons Mountain, who had appealed a one year sentence in the Maryland House of Correction given him by Magistrate Dick on an assault charge.

Cases continued until a later date included the appeals of Cecil N. Welsh, of Deer Park, hunting with improper license and hunting with an illegal shotgun, and John L. Ort, 810 Elmwood Avenue, this city, exceeding 50 miles per hour in his auto.

ON THE COST OF MEDICAL CARE
Many of the current prolonged discussions on the high cost of medical care are without foundation. Although it is true that drugs and medical services cost more now than they did ten years ago, the rise in cost has not been out of proportion to the increase in the prices of other commodities and services.
The cost of a physician's call is no greater than that of a plumber or an electrician. The cost of the medicine he prescribes is no higher than the cost of a valve, a faucet, or an electrical outlet.
Moreover, it must be remembered that money cannot buy good health. It is priceless. No finer, no more economical, no more efficient system of medical care has ever been devised than that which this nation now enjoys.

John T. Fey, a native of this city, has been named dean of the Law School of George Washington University in Washington.

He is one of the youngest men to have ever been appointed as head of the university's law branch. He has been acting dean since March 1 when he succeeded Dean Oswald Colclough who was appointed to a new position — dean of faculties.

The announcement was made by the university's Board of Trustees.

Fey was born in Cumberland March 10, 1917. He was graduated from Allegany High School in 1935. He was also graduated from Washington and Lee University in 1939 and from the University of Maryland School of Law in 1940. He was admitted to the bar in 1940.

The Cumberland man also worked for a master's degree in business accounting at Harvard University. Yale University conferred a doctor of judicial science on Fey in 1950.

He enlisted in the Marine Corps during World War II and served with the amphibious corps in Pacific warfare as a captain.

Fey was the first commanding officer of Company D, First Infantry Battalion, Marine Corps Reserve outfit in Cumberland. He holds the rank of major in the Marine Reserves.

He practiced law in Cumberland and was elected to the Maryland House of Delegates in 1946, serving through 1950. Fey during this period was attorney to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

Burke Heads District GOP Fund Drive

Edmund S. Burke, 736 Washington Street, has been named Sixth Congressional District chairman of the Eisenhower anniversary fund-raising dinner to be held in Baltimore on Armistice Day.

Burke is president of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company here and is also a member of the Board of Regents of University of Maryland.

Burke's territory will cover Allegany, Garrett, Washington, Frederick and Montgomery counties.

The $50 a plate dinner, to raise funds for the state and national Republican Party treasuries, is billed as a celebration of the first anniversary of President Eisenhower's victory at the polls last November.

All money above expenses is to be used, for the election next fall, when, according to dinner Chairman Robert O. Bonnell of Baltimore, "every effort will be made to increase the administration's support in the House of Representatives."

Burke and other leaders of the fund campaign in the congressional districts will be assisted in their districts by women vice chairmen to be appointed by Mrs. Joseph W. Byron of Hagerstown, co-chairman of the dinner committee.

The speaker at the dinner will be Senator William F. Knowland of California, administration floor leader in the Senate, just returned from a trip to the Far East.

Guests will include Governor Theodore McKeldin, U. S. Senators J. Glenn Beall and John M. Butler, and Miss Bertha S. Adkins, Maryland national committeewoman.

Olson Wins World's Middleweight Boxing Championship

RANDY'S ON THE WAY DOWN—Randy Turpin of Britain heads for the canvas in the ninth round after heavy pounding by Bobo Olson of Hawaii and San Francisco in their 15-round middleweight title bout at Madison Square Garden last night. Olson won the unanimous decision and takes over the crown vacated by Ray "Sugar" Robinson.

Hawaii Boxer Whips Turpin Before 18,869

Bob Gets Unanimous Decision; Britisher Hits The Deck Twice

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP) — Carl (Bobo) Olson, a tireless ring mechanic with a persistent, slashing attack, twice floored Britain's Randy Turpin tonight to win the vacant world middleweight title on a unanimous decision in a 15-round bout.

Time after time, the baldish Hawaiian drove the sturdy British Negro to the ropes and pummeled him almost at will. Turpin, went down for a five-count in the final seconds of the ninth and took a count of nine from Referee Al Berl in the tenth.

Shakes Olson In 11th

Randy started with a rush, slowed down under Bobo's steady punishment but still packed enough thunder to shake up Olson with a long overhand right in the eleventh.

Referee Berl scored it 9-4-2 in favor of Olson, Judge Charley Shortell, 11-4 and Judge Arthur Susskind, 8-7, on the unanimous ballot. The Associated Press card had Olson on top, 10-4-1.

The capacity crowd of 18,869, paying $167,651 roared as Olson, an 11 to 5 favorite, slashed Randy's face and dumped him twice.

Olson found the flaw that Sugar Ray Robinson, the retired king, found in Turpin's style. Randy reverted to form and dropped his hand as he had against Sugar Ray when he was stopped in 1951. His awkward-looking attempts to duck punches by shifting his head backward simply gave Olson a better target.

Floors Randy In 9th

Everytime Olson started to maneuver Randy to the ropes, the fans groaned and screamed in anticipation of another barrage.

The leather was flying so fast and furious that it was hard to count the punches but Bobo drove home at least eight hard smashes to the head before Turpin sunk down in the ninth. Referee Berl got up to five before the bell rang but continued his count up to seven, not knowing that the light on the corner posts had flashed the end of the round. The roar of the crowd drowned out the sound of the bell.

It looked like the end in the 10th when Olson pinned Turpin in his own corner with another two-fisted rally. Down went Randy, blood streaming from a cut on his left cheekbone, down on his knees, holding the bottom rope. At the count of four he sank on his haunches, still holding the ropes. He was up at nine, still a little foggy.

Turpin had surprised everybody by weighing in at 157 pounds at noon to Olson's 159½. Bobo even had to work off a pound or so after a trial run in mid-morning. The weight didn't seem to make too much difference.

At the start it seemed the experts certainly were wrong. Turpin rushed to the attack, scoring with his stiff jab from a stand up stance. He had Olson grabbing, trying to duck away from that stinging left.

Again in the second and third Turpin continued to press with his swarming attack. However, in the third Olson began to box in his accustomed style. Close observers thought Turpin was gasping for breath.

Opens Cut On Cheek

Suddenly Olson struck out in the fourth with a hook to the body that made Randy, the European champ, grab and hold. The cut opened on Turpin's cheek and the blood began to turn his white trunks into a butcher's apron.

COACH Augie Eichhorn, Bruce High School soccer mentor, tells one about a soccer ball bursting when two players kicked it at the same time, resulting in injury to both boys.

It happened prior to the opening of the current W.M.I. League season during a scrimmage session.

Kertesz and Beck were racing toward each other to boot the ball and they kicked it at the same time, causing the brand new leather spheroid to burst into two sections. Both players suffered ankle injuries on the play.

Kertesz missed the first three games and got into the Beall game Tuesday to boot the goal that won that affair, 1-0. Beck has been out of action since the explosion.

HARD LUCK continued to trail the Bulldogs yesterday when Bill Salesky, star wingman, suffered a broken bone in his knee and is expected to be idle the remainder of the season.

AFTER the Pittsburgh Steelers suffered a 23-7 defeat at the hands of the Philadelphia Eagles last Saturday night a sneak thief entered the hotel rooms of the players while they slept Sunday morning and stole amounts ranging from $20 to $50.

John Alderton, former Fort Hill High and University of Maryland star, was among the victims. Four other players had their wallets lifted.

J. MARSHALL BOONE, new chairman of the Maryland Athletic Commission, proposes a state age minimum of 18 for all boxers turning pro. The age is now 17.

WHEN the Old Germans won the Bi-State Baseball League playoffs this year it marked the fourth time a Cumberland team had copped the post-season series since the loop started in 1936, thus tying a record held by the Westvaco Papermakers.

1936 — Moorefield. 1937 — Frostburg. 1938 — Midland. 1939 — Midland. 1940 — Frostburg. 1941 — Cumberland. 1946 — Westvaco. 1947 — Cumberland. 1948 — Cumberland. 1949 — Westvaco. 1950 — Keyser and Westvaco tied. 1951 — Westvaco. 1952 — Hyndman Firemen. 1953 — Cumberland.

ONE of the youngest hunters to bag a turkey in Allegany county this season is Kenny Lepley of Second Street.

The 14-year-old lad got a 13-pounder on Town Hill last week.

CALVERT HALL'S football team, which tied Patterson Park after the Clippers knocked off Allegany High in the season's opener, was upset by St. John's Cadets of Washington, D. C., on Sunday by the score of 14-13.

It was the Cardinals' first loss of the season. All of the scoring was done in the final quarter. Calvert made it a thrilling finish by scoring twice in the last five minutes.

Both are Christian Brothers schools like LaSalle. In fact, Calvert Hall is the oldest Christian Brothers school in the United States.

WALTER "BUDDY" DAVIS, 22, the Texas A. & M. skyscraper, who stands a mere 6-8½, is now with the Philadelphia Warriors of the National Basketball League.

Davis happens to be the world's champion high jumper. Here is a guy who can outjump his own height. Last June he went over the crossbar set at 6 feet, 11 inches for a world mark, beating his Olympic gold medal leap of 6-feet-8.

He should be a terror jumping for rebounds caroming off a 10-foot basketball rim.

DICK O'BRIEN, the Washington Times-Herald boxing expert, who pulls no punches, puts the NBA's local affiliate, the District of Columbia Boxing Commission, on the pan for allowing Lee Sala, of Donora, Pa., to give five rounds of uninspired boxing recently before being KO'd by Willie Troy.

O'Brien reports that Sala gave slightly less than his all and criticizes the commission for allowing Lee to be paid off without an investigation of his lackadaisical exhibition.

Local fight fans will recall that the same Sala knocked out a couple of tankers in a round or two here in 1951 and those quickies sounded the death knell of pro boxing in Cumberland.

Varrichione Is Lineman Of Week In National Poll

Irish Tackle Made Key Play In Pitt Contest

By JERRY LISKA

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 21 (AP) —Frank Varrichione, The Associated Press lineman of the week, demonstrates the flexibility of talent that has made Notre Dame the nation's current No. 1 football team in this season of one-way play.

The 205-pound Irish tackle today was accorded the prized weekly distinction because of a key play which turned the tide in Notre Dame's comeback victory over Pittsburgh, 23-14.

Nailed Epps For Safety

With Notre Dame trailing 14-7, Varrichione nailed Pitt's star back, Bobby Epps, for a safety in the third period. Those two points put Notre Dame in the spot of moving ahead instead of merely tying with a touchdown. The threat plainly hurt the Panthers.

It was a happy development for both Varrichione, 21-year-old junior from Natick (Mass.) high school and Aquinas Institute in Rochester, N. Y.

Because this is the first season Varrichione has played defensive football. Last year he was strictly an offensive tackle and the previous year, as a freshman, was an offensive guard.

Varrichione played about 35 minutes against Pittsburgh and in the 37-7 romp over Purdue. In the hard-earned Irish 28-21 triumph over Oklahoma, Frank played 46 minutes and blocked a Sooner punt which led to a Notre Dame touchdown.

Other Stars Mentioned

Other linemen credited with noteworthy performances last Saturday included Pittsburgh's Eldred Kraemer, also a tackle; Lamar Leachman, Tennessee center, against Alabama; and tackle Bob Farris of Army, against Duke.

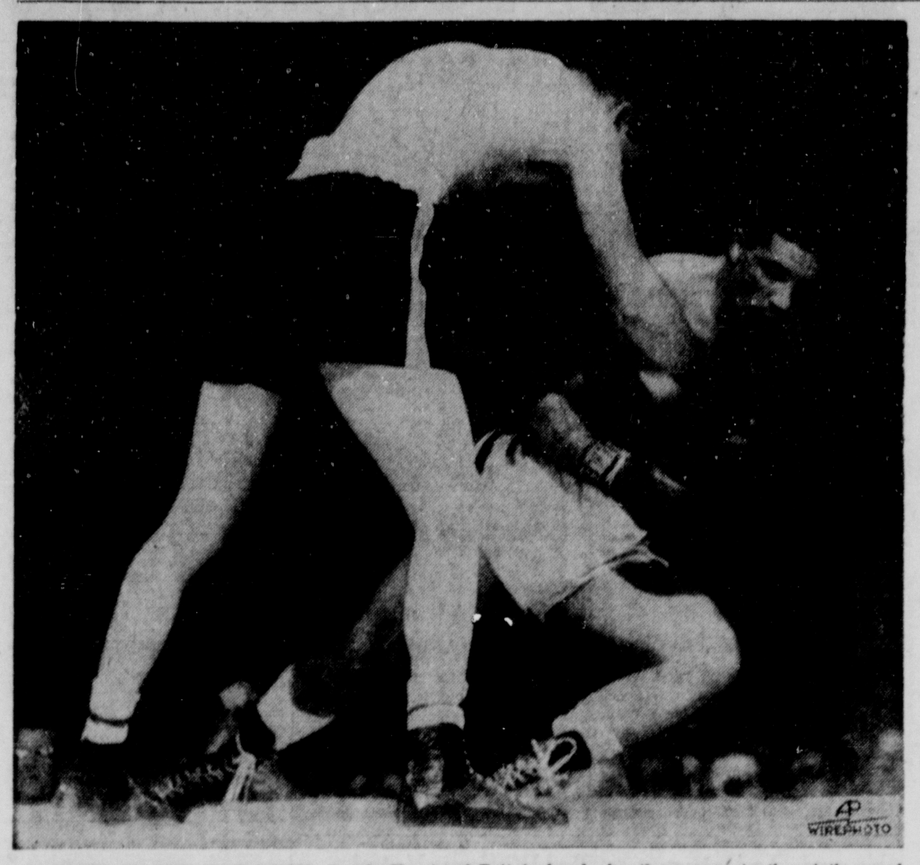
Olson Wins World's Middleweight Boxing Championship



RANDY'S ON THE WAY DOWN—Randy Turpin of Britain heads for the canvas in the ninth round after heavy pounding by Bobo Olson of Hawaii and San Francisco in their 15-round middleweight title bout at Madison Square Garden last night. Olson won the unanimous decision and takes over the crown vacated by Ray "Sugar" Robinson.

Hawaii Boxer Whips Turpin Before 18,869

Bob Gets Unanimous Decision; Britisher Hits The Deck Twice

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP) — Carl (Bobo) Olson, a tireless ring mechanic with a persistent, slashing attack, twice floored Britain's Randy Turpin tonight to win the vacant world middleweight title on a unanimous decision in a 15-round bout.

Time after time, the baldish Hawaiian drove the sturdy British Negro to the ropes and pummeled him almost at will. Turpin, went down for a five-count in the final seconds of the ninth and took a count of nine from Referee Al Berl in the tenth.

Shakes Olson In 11th

Randy started with a rush, slowed down under Bobo's steady punishment but still packed enough thunder to shake up Olson with a long overhand right in the eleventh.

Referee Berl scored it 9-4-2 in favor of Olson, Judge Charley Shortell, 11-4 and Judge Arthur Susskind, 8-7, on the unanimous ballot. The Associated Press card had Olson on top, 10-4-1.

The capacity crowd of 18,869, paying $167,651 roared as Olson, an 11 to 5 favorite, slashed Randy's face and dumped him twice.

Olson found the flaw that Sugar Ray Robinson, the retired king, found in Turpin's style. Randy reverted to form and dropped his hand as he had against Sugar Ray when he was stopped in 1951. His awkward-looking attempts to duck punches by shifting his head backward simply gave Olson a better target.

Floors Randy In 9th

Everytime Olson started to maneuver Randy to the ropes, the fans groaned and screamed in anticipation of another barrage.

The leather was flying so fast and furious that it was hard to count the punches but Bobo drove home at least eight hard smashes to the head before Turpin sunk down in the ninth. Referee Berl got up to five before the bell rang but continued his count up to seven, not knowing that the light on the corner posts had flashed the end of the round. The roar of the crowd drowned out the sound of the bell.

It looked like the end in the 10th when Olson pinned Turpin in his own corner with another two-fisted rally. Down went Randy, blood streaming from a cut on his left cheekbone, down on his knees, holding the bottom rope. At the count of four he sank on his haunches, still holding the ropes. He was up at nine, still a little foggy.

Turpin had surprised everybody by weighing in at 157 pounds at noon to Olson's 159½. Bobo even had to work off a pound or so after a trial run in mid-morning. The weight didn't seem to make too much difference.

At the start it seemed the experts certainly were wrong. Turpin rushed to the attack, scoring with his stiff jab from a stand up stance. He had Olson grabbing, trying to duck away from that stinging left.

Again in the second and third Turpin continued to press with his swarming attack. However, in the third Olson began to box in his accustomed style. Close observers thought Turpin was gasping for breath.

Opens Cut On Cheek

Suddenly Olson struck out in the fourth with a hook to the body that made Randy, the European champ, grab and hold. The cut opened on Turpin's cheek and the blood began to turn his white trunks into a butcher's apron.

Olson had Turpin leaning away now, trying to duck his punches, as he began to bang away to the head and body. In the clinches, Olson was scoring to the body while Randy waited for a chance to shoot that long right to the head.

Ed Thompson's Penalty Goal Wins For Frostburg Teachers

Babcock's Bobcats Beat Mt. St. Mary's For 3rd Win, 2-1

FROSTBURG, Oct. 21 — A penalty goal by Ed Thompson, of Lonaconing, with 15 minutes remaining in the 22-minute final quarter, enabled the Frostburg State Teachers College soccer team to defeat Mt. St. Mary's College today at Emmitsburg, Md., by the score of 2-1.

The victory was the third of the season for Coach Kenneth Babcock's booters who are scheduled to play Indiana State Teachers College at Indiana, Pa.

Midway in the third period Ronnie Chapman, of Cumberland, put the Bobcats out in front with a field goal.

With 1½ minutes left to play in the same quarter, Cevallus, substitute forward from Venezuela, tied the score with a field goal. The count remained knotted until Thompson broke it up with a penalty shot.

Frostburg had plenty of opportunities to score, getting 15 shots at the goal, but was able to register one field goal. Goalie Arnone of the Bobcats handled five chances at the uprights.

Casey Stengel Is Named Manager Of Year Fourth Time

Charley Grimm Is Runner-Up, Dressen Third

Yanks' Skipper Gets 107 Of 179 Ballots; Richards Is Fourth

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—Casey Stengel, only manager ever to pilot a baseball team to five consecutive world championships, today was named Manager of the Year for the second straight time and fourth time in the last five years.

It was practically no contest as the 64-year-old skipper of the New York Yankees drew 107 of the 179 votes by members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America in the annual Associated Press poll.

Wins Fourth Time

Stengel first won the poll in 1949 and repeated in 1950 and 1952. He easily netted more votes than the combined total of the 15 other mangers.

Charlie Grimm, who steered the Milwaukee Braves into second place in the National League pennant race, was runner-up to Stengel. Grimm received 30 votes, six more than Charlie Dressen, who placed third. Dressen was recently released by Brooklyn despite leading the Dodgers to two successive National League pennants.

Paul Richards, who directed the Chicago White Sox into third place in the American League, was fourth. He was named on 10 ballots. Lou Boudreau, who piloted a rookie-dominated Boston Red Sox team into fourth place, received four votes.

Sets Couple Records

Stengel's one-sided victory was no surprise. The canny "old perfessor" set a couple of records that may never be equalled. In addition to bettering Joe McCarthy's mark of four straight world championships, he has gone through five consecutive seasons without losing a single season series to a rival team.

Tom Fool Arrives For Pimlico Special

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21 (AP) — Tom Fool, whose timing is fine in races and awful in luck, checked in today for Saturday's Pimlico Special in which he will try for some more belated recognition.

How much glory the Special may add to Tom Fool in horse racing memories is problematical.

It's uncertain what horse, if any, is going to race him for the mile and three-sixteenths. Those mentioned as probable entries on Friday include no one formidable enough to enhance Tom Fool's stellar record much if he wins. But any would deliver a mighty blow if he should lose.

The only thoroughbred rated nearly a certain starter against Tom Fool now is E. P. Taylor's Navy Page, who also is stabled at Pimlico. Navy Page is a 3-year-old whose claim to a bit of fame is the Canadian championship.

CASEY STENGEL

Sports Grill

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (INS)—Hot off the grill today we have . . . Lou Little . . . Columbia's great coach . . . who says you haven't seen anything yet in the way of upsets . . . reason: sophomore-studded teams improving every week . . .

Lou says bane of his life is the "well-directed intercepted pass" . . . as thrown by his own quarterbacks . . .

Our Brooklyn operative assures us Peewee Reese . . . Dodger shortstop and captain . . . is all set as successor to Chuck Dressen . . . with Peewee's salary jumping from $35,000 to $50,000 . . . with big saving to the owners . . . same op. Says Frankie Frisch . . . the old Fordham Flash . . . was only other man considered . . . although great many applied for job . . .

Friends fear Earl Sande . . . 54-year old jockey making comeback . . . may wind up with tb if he persists in making weight . . . Sande . . . tall for a jockey . . . reduced from 138 to 113 in few months . . . and must keep on torturing himself to continue at that weight . . .

Moan from Charley Johnston . . . manager of World Champions Sandy (featherweight) Saddler and Archie (light heavy) Moore . . . "Here I am with two world champs on my hands and no dough in sight . . . Sandy won't get out of the army until next February and nobody wants any part of Moore . . . Maybe Rocky Marciano will fight Archie next summer because Archie's the only fighter Rocky can draw any money with . . ."

Nice to note Giants have somebody they can lick—in Japan . . .

Maybe New York Rangers and Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League would do well to follow Giants' footsteps to the Orient . . .

Tip from pro team coaches . . . including Steve Owen . . . don't bet that Navy will slaughter Army this year . . . Army is vastly improved and gaining from week to week . . . game sure to be close and rugged as usual . . .

Navy tub-thumper John Cox expects Guard Steve Eisenhauer to make All-America again . . . but will be disappointed if Ronald Beagle . . . a sophomore end . . . also doesn't make the grade . . .

Ev (Miami) Clay in town assuring everybody the Orange Bowl will have the top bowl attraction this time . . . with Maryland probably tackling Oklahoma . . .

Which reminds us that college coaches expect Big Ten to wallop the Pacific Coast representative . . . no matter which teams play . . . in the Rose Bowl . . .

Race track punters have found lots of phony half dollars going in and out of the mutuel windows . . . we got stuck with one the other day . . .

Tennis moguls now give us at least an even chance to bring back the Davis Cup . . . even if we don't win the doubles . . . figuring Vic Seixas can win two singles matches and Tony Trabert the other needed victory . . . selah . . .

Sabette Captures Gallorette Stakes

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 21 (AP) — Belair Stud's Sabette came on in the last sixteenth of a mile today to win the second running of the Gallorette in near record time for the Pimlico track.

Sabette's time of 1:51 3/5 was only four-fifths slower than the track record for the mile and eighth.

The 3-year-old daughter of Alsab, who won the 1942 Preakness over the same track, scored by 2½ lengths over Buddah Stable's Sunny Dale who came up from last to nip the early leading E. P. Taylor's Canadiana in a photo.

The winner of last year's inaugural Gallorette, Mrs. M. W. O'Connor's La Corredora, was fourth after being runnerup during the first part of the race.

It was the fifth victory in 18 races this year for Sabette. The chestnut filly picked up $10,975 and returned $15.80 for $2 to her backers in the crowd of 12,189.

Finishing out of the money in the race were King Ranch's Mac Bea, Mrs. H. G. Young's Bessie's Beau and Clifford Mooers' Miss Traffic.

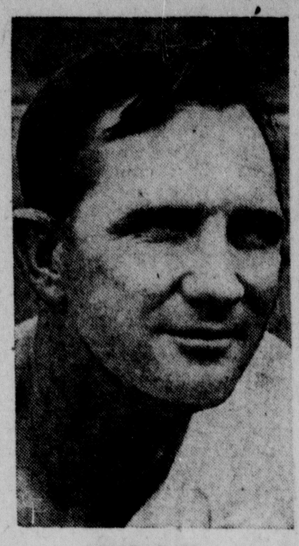
Fears Suffers Two Fractured Vertebrae

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21 (INS)—End Tom Fears of the Los Angeles Rams suffered two fractured vertebrae against the Detroit Lions and will be out of action for 30 days.

Dr. Danny Fortmann said today that Fears suffered "two broken transverse processes of the lumar vertebrae."

Coach Hampton Pool labeled Fears' loss "a terrible blow — especially with games coming up on successive weekends against the Chicago Bears, Detroit Lions and San Francisco 49'ers." Fears cannot play until Nov. 22 against the Baltimore Colts.

THEY'RE HARD TO BEAT



Bobby Dodd

Biggie Munn

UNDEFEATED STREAKS piled up by these two football coaches face the most serious threats yet. Bobby Dodd, head coach at Georgia Tech, is riding along on a 31-game undefeated streak, although there are ties interspersed. But Dodd faces his biggest test this week when his Yellowjackets face Notre Dame in the big one. Biggie Munn, head coach at Michigan State, now is the proud possessor of 28 straight victories. His big test comes in November when his team faces Ohio State and Michigan. (International)

Edwards To Return To Major Leagues As Cubs' Infielder

CHICAGO, Oct. 21 (AP) — Bruce Edwards, one-time ace Brooklyn catcher who was thought washed up because of an arm injury, is returning to the major leagues.

But this time Edwards, now 30, is coming up as a third baseman.

The Chicago Cubs announced today they have purchased his contract from their Des Moines, Iowa, affiliate in the Western League.

Edwards managed Des Moines to a fourth-place finish and the playoff championship last season. He also played third base, hitting .321.

He broke into the majors with Brooklyn in 1946, was the National League's all-star catcher in 1947 and played on the 1947 and 1949 championship Dodgers teams.

He injured his arm in a Pacific Coast charity game in the winter of 1947-48 and it never regained full strength for catching duties.

Cleveland Might Win In 1954, Lopez Says

TAMPA, Fla., Oct. 21 (AP) — Al Lopez, manager of the Cleveland Indians, is through labeling the New York Yankees the team to beat in the American League.

From now on he's going to give the nod to his own Indians.

Lopez, a Tampa resident, told a civic club here he already has the strongest pitching staff in baseball and the club is making several changes he is confident will strengthen it considerably.

"This is my 29th year in baseball and before I have to call it curtains I would like to have the opportunity to be in a World Series," Lopez said. "Maybe this 1954 will be the year."

Farris Stands Out In V.M.I. Workout

LEXINGTON, Va., Oct. 21 (AP)—Virginia Military Institute scrimmaged long and hard today, the varsity squad working on defense against a freshman unit running West Virginia plays.

Freshman quarterback Jimmy Farris of Cumberland, Md., and halfback Jimmy Tate of Norton, Va., were outstanding in running the Mountaineer offense against the varsity. They advanced the ball consistently against first, second and third string varsity units.

Guard Joe Siler and quarterback Royce Jones remained out of action with injuries suffered in the Virginia game. Both should return tomorrow.

Ted Williams Voted Athlete Of Month

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—Ted Williams' brilliant performance with the Boston Red Sox after his return from Korea won him the September award as "pro athlete of the month" in the competition for the $10,000 Hickok belt.

Williams' comeback overshadowed Rocky Marciano's feat of stopping Roland LaStarza in the voting. Cleveland's Al Rosen was third followed by two Washington players, batting champion Mickey Vernon and pitcher Bob Porterfield.

Archie Moore Told To Defend Title

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—Boxing's joint Board of Review today told light heavyweight champion Archie Moore to defend his crown by Dec. 24 against "somebody," but preferably Harold Johnson, No. 1 contender from Philadelphia.

Moore successfully defended his title June 24 when he outpointed Joey Maxim, from whom he won the championship. His six months period of non-title grace will expire Dec. 24.

Charlie Johnston, manager of Moore, told the board, made up of members of the National Boxing Association and the New York State Athletic commission, that he has never received an offer for a Johnson-Moore fight. Moore won three out of four fights with Johnson before he captured the title.

Casey Stengel Is Named Manager Of Year Fourth Time

Yanks' Skipper Gets 107 Of 179 Ballots; Richards Is Fourth

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—Casey Stengel, only manager ever to pilot a baseball team to five consecutive world championships, today was named Manager of the Year for the second straight time and fourth time in the last five years.

It was practically no contest as the 64-year-old skipper of the New York Yankees drew 107 of the 179 votes by members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America in the annual Associated Press poll.

Wins Fourth Time

Stengel first won the poll in 1949 and repeated in 1950 and 1952. He easily netted more votes than the combined total of the 15 other mangers.

Charlie Grimm, who steered the Milwaukee Braves into second place in the National League pennant race, was runner-up to Stengel. Grimm received 30 votes, six more than Charlie Dressen, who placed third. Dressen was recently released by Brooklyn despite leading the Dodgers to two successive National League pennants.

Paul Richards, who directed the Chicago White Sox into third place in the American League, was fourth. He was named on 10 ballots. Lou Boudreau, who piloted a rookie-dominated Boston Red Sox team into fourth place, received four votes.

Sets Couple Records

Stengel's one-sided victory was no surprise. The canny "old perfessor" set a couple of records that may never be equalled. In addition to bettering Joe McCarthy's mark of four straight world championships, he has gone through five consecutive seasons without losing a single season series to a rival team.

Tom Fool Arrives For Pimlico Special

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21 (AP) — Tom Fool, whose timing is fine in races and awful in luck, checked in today for Saturday's Pimlico Special in which he will try for some more belated recognition.

How much glory the Special may add to Tom Fool in horse racing memories is problematical.

It's uncertain what horse, if any, is going to race him for the mile and three-sixteenths. Those mentioned as probable entries on Friday include no one formidable enough to enhance Tom Fool's stellar record much if he wins. But any would deliver a mighty blow if he should lose.

The only thoroughbred rated nearly a certain starter against Tom Fool now is E. P. Taylor's Navy Page, who also is stabled at Pimlico. Navy Page is a 3-year-old whose claim to a bit of fame is the Canadian championship.

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (INS)—Hot off the grill today we have . . . Lou Little . . . Columbia's great coach . . . who says you haven't seen anything yet in the way of upsets . . . reason: sophomore-studded teams improving every week . . .

Lou says bane of his life is the "well-directed intercepted pass" . . . as thrown by his own quarterbacks . . .

Our Brooklyn operative assures us Peewee Reese . . . Dodger shortstop and captain . . . is all set as successor to Chuck Dressen . . . with Peewee's salary jumping from $35,000 to $50,000 . . . with big saving to the owners . . . same op. Says Frankie Frisch . . . the old Fordham Flash . . . was only other man considered . . . although great many applied for job . . .

Friends fear Earl Sande . . . 54-year old jockey making comeback . . . may wind up with tb if he persists in making weight . . . Sande . . . tall for a jockey . . . reduced from 138 to 113 in few months . . . and must keep on torturing himself to continue at that weight . . .

Moan from Charley Johnston . . . manager of World Champions Sandy (featherweight) Saddler and Archie (light heavy) Moore . . . "Here I am with two world champs on my hands and no dough in sight . . . Sandy won't get out of the army until next February and nobody wants any part of Moore . . . Maybe Rocky Marciano will fight Archie next summer because Archie's the only fighter Rocky can draw any money with . . ."

Nice to note Giants have somebody they can lick—in Japan . . .

Maybe New York Rangers and Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League would do well to follow Giants' footsteps to the Orient . . .

Tip from pro team coaches . . . including Steve Owen . . . don't bet that Navy will slaughter Army this year . . . Army is vastly improved and gaining from week to week . . . game sure to be close and rugged as usual . . .

Navy tub-thumper John Cox expects Guard Steve Eisenhauer to make All-America again . . . but will be disappointed if Ronald Beagle . . . a sophomore end . . . also doesn't make the grade . . .

Ev (Miami) Clay in town assuring everybody the Orange Bowl will have the top bowl attraction this time . . . with Maryland probably tackling Oklahoma . . .

Which reminds us that college coaches expect Big Ten to wallop the Pacific Coast representative . . . no matter which teams play . . . in the Rose Bowl . . .

Race track punters have found lots of phony half dollars going in and out of the mutuel windows . . . we got stuck with one the other day . . .

Tennis moguls now give us at least an even chance to bring back the Davis Cup . . . even if we don't win the doubles . . . figuring Vic Seixas can win two singles matches and Tony Trabert the other needed victory . . . selah . . .

Sabette Captures Gallorette Stakes

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 21 (AP) — Belair Stud's Sabette came on in the last sixteenth of a mile today to win the second running of the Gallorette in near record time for the Pimlico track.

Sabette's time of 1:51 3/5 was only four-fifths slower than the track record for the mile and eighth.

The 3-year-old daughter of Alsab, who won the 1942 Preakness over the same track, scored by 2½ lengths over Buddah Stable's Sunny Dale who came up from last to nip the early leading E. P. Taylor's Canadiana in a photo.

It was the fifth victory in 18 races this year for Sabette. The chestnut filly picked up $10,975 and returned $15.80 for $2 to her backers in the crowd of 12,189.

Finishing out of the money in the race were King Ranch's Mac Bea, Mrs. H. G. Young's Bessie's Beau and Clifford Mooers' Miss Traffic.

THEY'RE HARD TO BEAT

Bobby Dodd

Biggie Munn

UNDEFEATED STREAKS piled up by these two football coaches face the most serious threats yet. Bobby Dodd, head coach at Georgia Tech, is riding along on a 31-game undefeated streak, although there are ties interspersed. But Dodd faces his biggest test this week when his Yellowjackets face Notre Dame in the big one. Biggie Munn, head coach at Michigan State, now is the proud possessor of 28 straight victories. His big test comes in November when his team faces Ohio State and Michigan. (International)

Edwards To Return To Major Leagues As Cubs' Infielder

CHICAGO, Oct. 21 (AP) — Bruce Edwards, one-time ace Brooklyn catcher who was thought washed up because of an arm injury, is returning to the major leagues.

But this time Edwards, now 30, is coming up as a third baseman.

The Chicago Cubs announced today they have purchased his contract from their Des Moines, Iowa, affiliate in the Western League.

Edwards managed Des Moines to a fourth-place finish and the playoff championship last season. He also played third base, hitting .321.

He broke into the majors with Brooklyn in 1946, was the National League's all-star catcher in 1947 and played on the 1947 and 1949 championship Dodgers teams.

He injured his arm in a Pacific Coast charity game in the winter of 1947-48 and it never regained full strength for catching duties.

Cleveland Might Win In 1954, Lopez Says

TAMPA, Fla., Oct. 21 (AP) — Al Lopez, manager of the Cleveland Indians, is through labeling the New York Yankees the team to beat in the American League.

From now on he's going to give the nod to his own Indians.

Lopez, a Tampa resident, told a civic club here he already has the strongest pitching staff in baseball and the club is making several changes he is confident will strengthen it considerably.

"This is my 29th year in baseball and before I have to call it curtains I would like to have the opportunity to be in a World Series," Lopez said. "Maybe this 1954 will be the year."

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—Ted Williams' brilliant performance with the Boston Red Sox after his return from Korea won him the September award as "pro athlete of the month" in the competition for the $10,000 Hickok belt.

Williams' comeback overshadowed Rocky Marciano's feat of stopping Roland LaStarza in the voting. Cleveland's Al Rosen was third followed by two Washington players, batting champion Mickey Vernon and pitcher Bob Porterfield.

Archie Moore Told To Defend Title

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—Boxing's joint Board of Review today told light heavyweight champion Archie Moore to defend his crown by Dec. 24 against "somebody," but preferably Harold Johnson, No. 1 contender from Philadelphia.

Moore successfully defended his title June 24 when he outpointed Joey Maxim, from whom he won the championship. His six months period of non-title grace will expire Dec. 24.

Charlie Johnston, manager of Moore, told the board, made up of members of the National Boxing Association and the New York State Athletic commission, that he has never received an offer for a Johnson-Moore fight. Moore won three out of four fights with Johnson before he captured the title.

Fire-Conscious Hyndman Faces Water Shortage As Drought Cuts Into Supply

The town of Hyndman, which four years ago this Christmas Eve suffered a tragic, disastrous fire loss, faces a serious water shortage.

Less than a third of the 100,000 gallons supply remains because of the prolonged drought. But this time, farseeing city fathers took steps to see that precautionary measures are taken.

A state of emergency has been declared by Gov. John S. Fine of Pennsylvania and Civil Defense and Health Department Water Supply Division teams from Indiantown Gap and Harrisburg moved in to install 3,100 feet of pipe and a pump from a privately owned pond near the town reservoirs.

The town's two reservoirs are fed only by a small stream—about one foot wide and two to three inches deep. One, known as the "new reservoir" measures 90 feet wide and 100 feet long. The other or "old" reservoir is 30 by 40 feet.

Rain or surface water is caught in the old reservoir and channeled into the new dam. Councilmen report the new reservoir leaks in at least two sections.

Townspeople plan to build the old reservoir higher to trap water while the new reservoir is being drained and repaired.

The state is drawing the emergency supply of water from a privately-owned pond on the property of Dr. John Topper. Casper S. Hyre, borough council president, said water in the pond sometimes had been used for drinking purposes.

Hyre said restrictions had been placed on water use about two months ago. Washing cars and watering lawns are discouraged. Drinking water and use for cooking and laundry are rationed and signs are tacked about warning residents about indiscriminate use.

Despite the dryness of wooded lands, the Hyndman area has escaped fires, Hyre added.

Hyre said half of the 3,100 feet of pipe has been laid and all but 50 to 75 feet pumped full of water. Through this method water will be available immediately for the town reservoir when the final connection is made.

Yesterday, some male members of the Hyndman High School Senior Class were excused from classes to help lay the pipeline.

While it was thought the supply, with rationing, could hold out for some time, the major threat in the minds of Hyndman's 1,300 residents is—fire.

Nobody has forgotten the holocaust of four years ago. The business district was leveled, two persons lost their lives and damage ran into the millions of dollars.

The present water supply could never meet the demands of a major fire, a spokesman said.

A few days ago, volunteer firemen did manage to lay a hose from a nearby creek and pump enough water to douse a small house fire. Fire was confined to the interior and quickly extinguished.

Keyser Pressed For Funds For Sewage Disposal

State Demands End To River Pollution

KEYSER—The Mayor and Council at a meeting this week discussed the position in which the city has been placed since the State Water Commision has demanded that the city take steps in the disposal of sewage to prevent pollution of the Potomac River.

The city is without funds to take necessary action, said officials, but the state demands that steps be taken before the first of the month toward correction of the present condition.

Mayor John C. Freeland was instructed by council to write a letter to the State Water Commision and tell that body that Keyser will take whatever preliminary steps are necessary at this time, in the way of cooperation, including information that an engineer has discussed the matter with the city. A blueprint of the Keyser sewer system will be sent with the letter.

City Clerk Carl F. Theis Jr. reported to council on the present financial standing of the city. Balance on hand, he said, was $4,925.70.

The city accepted the offer of Blundon, Snyder and Small, local engineers, for engineering work and overseeing the construction of the municipal swimming pool.

The council heard a report from Commissioner Lester Oates on the possible danger within the city due to long unused gasoline tanks still underground in certain parts of the city.

Oates said that the tanks are dangerous, and if a spark should reach the contents, an explosion would result.

A warning was also given of the danger of old ice boxes that may be in parts of the city. The council requests that if there are such boxes within the city they be dismantled or removed from the city.

The mayor congratulated the city street and water departments on the "excellent job" they are doing.

Rain or surface water is caught in the old reservoir and channeled into the new dam. Councilmen report the new reservoir leaks in at least two sections.

Townspeople plan to build the old reservoir higher to trap water while the new reservoir is being drained and repaired.

The state is drawing the emergency supply of water from a privately-owned pond on the property of Dr. John Topper. Casper S. Hyre, borough council president, said water in the pond sometimes had been used for drinking purposes.

Hyre said restrictions had been placed on water use about two months ago. Washing cars and watering lawns are discouraged. Drinking water and use for cooking and laundry are rationed and signs are tacked about warning residents about indiscriminate use.

Despite the dryness of wooded lands, the Hyndman area has escaped fires, Hyre added.

Hyre said half of the 3,100 feet of pipe has been laid and all but 50 to 75 feet pumped full of water. Through this method water will be available immediately for the town reservoir when the final connection is made.

Yesterday, some male members of the Hyndman High School Senior Class were excused from classes to help lay the pipeline.

While it was thought the supply, with rationing, could hold out for some time, the major threat in the minds of Hyndman's 1,300 residents is—fire.

Nobody has forgotten the holocaust of four years ago. The business district was leveled, two persons lost their lives and damage ran into the millions of dollars.

The present water supply could never meet the demands of a major fire, a spokesman said.

A few days ago, volunteer firemen did manage to lay a hose from a nearby creek and pump enough water to douse a small house fire. Fire was confined to the interior and quickly extinguished.

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

16 Conservation Practices Approved For Mineral Farms

KEYSER — Sixteen conservation practices have been approved for Mineral County farms' 1954 agricultural conservation program, according to John S. Arnold Jr., chairman of the county PMA committee.

He listed the practices as:

Establishing permanent grass cover on eroded or unproductive cropland; treatment of cropland with required lime to establish grasses and legumes; establishing contour strip cropland; improvement of permanent pastures and meadows by lime, fertilizer and reseeding; subsoiling to prevent erosion and water runoff.

Improvement of springs and seeps to provide water for livestock; constructing ponds to provide water for livestock; improvement and protection of existing woodland; establishing sod waterways to prevent erosion; establishing grass cover on gullies and ditches; constructing diversion ditches to prevent erosion; cleaning and improving stream channels on small water courses.

Arnold said government assistance for performing the approved practices in 1954 will amount to approximately 50 per cent of the cost.

Farmers planning to participate in the program are urged to visit the county PMA office before December 10 and state which practices they wish to perform.

Keyser Pressed For Funds For Sewage Disposal

State Demands End To River Pollution

KEYSER—The Mayor and Council at a meeting this week discussed the position in which the city has been placed since the State Water Commission has demanded that the city take steps in the disposal of sewage to prevent pollution of the Potomac River.

The city is without funds to take necessary action, said officials, but the state demands that steps be taken before the first of the month toward correction of the present condition.

Mayor John C. Freeland was instructed by council to write a letter to the State Water Commision and tell that body that Keyser will take whatever preliminary steps are necessary at this time, in the way of cooperation, including information that an engineer has discussed the matter with the city. A blueprint of the Keyser sewer system will be sent with the letter.

City Clerk Carl F. Theis Jr. reported to council on the present financial standing of the city. Balance on hand, he said, was $4,925.70.

Charles Blackburn, local manufacturer of cinder block, was present and discussed the future plans for operation of the city quarry.

The city accepted the offer of Blundon, Snyder and Small, local engineers, for engineering work and overseeing the construction of the municipal swimming pool.

The council heard a report from Commissioner Lester Oates on the possible danger within the city due to long unused gasoline tanks still underground in certain parts of the city.

Oates said that the tanks are dangerous, and if a spark should reach the contents, an explosion would result.

A warning was also given of the danger of old ice boxes that may be in parts of the city. The council requests that if there are such boxes within the city they be dismantled or removed from the city.

Only a year-round, daily care and conditioning insures a smooth

Secrets Of Charm
by John Robert Powers

Now that sun-back fashions are put away for another year and with the fashion news pointing to the fact that even for parties the smartest styles this winter are less revealing than those worn last year, you may be tempted to relax in the care of your back, shoulders and elbows. But to yield to temptation is to court unhappiness later. Any relaxation is sure to result in a blemished skin.

Just a "once over lightly" daily with a wash cloth will never keep the skin lovely. It is particularly important for all teen agers to note this fact.

A Good Scrubbing

The back must be scrubbed well daily, using warm water and plenty of suds. A back brush is excellent for this. The cleanest and freshest of wash cloths should be used in rinsing.

Once a week an extra beauty treatment can be given the back with one of the special friction cleansing preparations available at cosmetic counters. These friction cleansers give stimulation and helps to clean away rough, dead skin. Anyone who is troubled with blackheads and blemishes on the back and shoulders should never let a week pass without a couple of such treatments.

Elbow Care

The elbows should be treated to a light but thorough scrubbing with a nail brush slathered with lather to keep the skin light in color, free of dirt and smooth. Foward the latter goal, smooth some of your favorite hand cream or skin lubricant on your elbows each night just before you retire.

As a further consideration for the beauty of your back, watch the cleanliness of everything you put on it. Bra straps, slips and clothes that are even slightly soiled can contaminated the skin and breed infections.

Only year-round care and continual vigilance will result in beautiful skin on the back and the shoulders. But the reward is worth every bit of the care that it takes!

by John Robert Powers

Now that sun-back fashions are put away for another year and with the fashion news pointing to the fact that even for parties the smartest styles this winter are less revealing than those worn last year, you may be tempted to relax in the care of your back, shoulders and elbows. But to yield to temptation is to court unhappiness later. Any relaxation is sure to result in a blemished skin.

Just a "once over lightly" daily with a wash cloth will never keep the skin lovely. It is particularly important for all teen agers to note this fact.

A Good Scrubbing

The back must be scrubbed well daily, using warm water and plenty of suds. A back brush is excellent for this. The cleanest and freshest of wash cloths should be used in rinsing.

Once a week an extra beauty treatment can be given the back with one of the special friction cleansing preparations available at cosmetic counters. These friction cleansers give stimulation and helps to clean away rough, dead skin. Anyone who is troubled with blackheads and blemishes on the back and shoulders should never let a week pass without a couple of such treatments.

Elbow Care

The elbows should be treated to a light but thorough scrubbing with a nail brush slathered with lather to keep the skin light in color, free of dirt and smooth. Foward the latter goal, smooth some of your favorite hand cream or skin lubricant on your elbows each night just before you retire.

As a further consideration for the beauty of your back, watch the cleanliness of everything you put on it. Bra straps, slips and clothes that are even slightly soiled can contaminated the skin and breed infections.

Only year-round care and continual vigilance will result in beautiful skin on the back and the shoulders. But the reward is worth every bit of the care that it takes!

Tomorrow: For those who love quality.

Civil Defense May Go To National Guard

DENVER, Oct. 21 (AP)—Transfer of civil defense duties to the National Guard was proposed today by U. S. Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo) in a telegram to President Eisenhower.

The guard, Johnson said, could do "a better job at one-tenth the cost."

The U. S. is "on the wrong track" in its present civilain approach to the problem, the senator asserted, and the money being spent is largely wasted.

Producer Logan Suffers Collapse

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—Broadway producer Joshua Logan has suffered a physical collapse and has entered a Louisiana sanitarium for a complete rest, a spokesman said today.

The spokesman said Logan had overworked himself, against doctor's orders, in production of the Mary Martin-Charles Boyer show "Kind Sir."

Second Tanker Ready For Russia

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Oct. 21 (AP)—The second tanker to be completed for Soviet Russia by Danish shipbuilders within a year went on a trial cruise from Copenhagen today, ready to be handed over to the Russians tomorrow. About 40 Russian sailors have been in Copenhagen for some days, ready to man it.

Male and female rabbits are called bucks and does.

Daily Bridge Lesson

by Shepard Barclay

THREE MORE THAN FOUR

UNIVERSALLY, among top-ranking players, an immediate raise of your partner's opening suit bid to the three level shows more strength than a raise to four. Indeed, it guarantees ability to bid four, but also advertises good general strength for slam purposes or for defense against the opponents if they venture into the bidding. Consequently, an immediate raise from one to four is used for shutout purposes. It shows some possibility, though not too great likelihood, of ability to make the contract if the opener's hand is a minimum, but denies any appreciable general strength which could be valuable for slam purposes or on defense. In a nutshell, it is a sort of premature sacrifice bid, before the opponents can find if they have a good fit.

	♠ J ♥ A K J 3 ♦ 10 8 2 ♣ A Q 10 8 5
♠ 10 6 5 3 2 ♥ 9 7 2 ♦ Q 9 6 ♣ J 6	N W E S	♠ K Q 7 4 ♥ 5 ♦ A J 5 3 ♣ 9 4 3 2
	♠ A 9 8 ♥ Q 10 8 6 4 ♦ K 7 4 ♣ K 7

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	4 ♥

South took all the tricks after West led the spade 3. The dummy's clubs furnished discards of all his three diamonds. Even a diamond lead could not have hurt a small slam contract, regardless of where the A might have been located.

So North then heard a lecture from his partner on the right and wrong times to make the kind of bid he did. North was so terrifically strong, in view of his partner's having an opening bid, that he should have been interested in slam from the outset. Either 3-Clubs or 3-Hearts, dependent upon his bidding style, would have been richly justified. More and more players nowadays are preferring the double jump in the original suit to a jump takeout as a game force, since it gives the other side less information to guide the defense.

If North had bid 3-Hearts, South said he would have used the Blackwood 4-No Trump bid. North's response of 5-Hearts, showing two aces, would have caused a 6-Heart bid by South. Of course, North's two aces might have been in the minors, but that would have been so unlikely that the slam effort would have been more than justified.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ A K Q 10 3 ♥ 4 ♦ 10 9 8 5 2 ♣ A K
♠ 9 ♥ 7 6 3 ♦ A K 7 6 4 3 ♣ 6 5 3	N W E S	♠ J 8 7 6 2 ♥ A Q ♦ Q J ♣ Q J 10 9
	♠ 5 4 ♥ K J 10 9 8 5 2 ♦ None ♣ 8 7 4 2

(Dealer: North. North-South culnerable.)

How should South play for 6-Hearts, doubled by East, if West, who had bid diamonds, leads the spade 9?

Daily Bridge Lesson

by Shepard Barclay

THREE MORE THAN FOUR

UNIVERSALLY, among top-ranking players, an immediate raise of your partner's opening suit bid to the three level shows more strength than a raise to four. Indeed, it guarantees ability to bid four, but also advertises good general strength for slam purposes or for defense against the opponents if they venture into the bidding. Consequently, an immediate raise from one to four is used for shutout purposes. It shows some possibility, though not too great likelihood, of ability to make the contract if the opener's hand is a minimum, but denies any appreciable general strength which could be valuable for slam purposes or on defense. In a nutshell, it is a sort of premature sacrifice bid, before the opponents can find if they have a good fit.

	♠ J ♥ A K J 3 ♦ 10 8 2 ♣ A Q 10 8 5
♠ 10 6 5 3 2 ♥ 9 7 2 ♦ Q 9 6 ♣ J 6	N W E S	♠ K Q 7 4 ♥ 5 ♦ A J 5 3 ♣ 9 4 3 2
	♠ A 9 8 ♥ Q 10 8 6 4 ♦ K 7 4 ♣ K 7

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	4 ♥

South took all the tricks after West led the spade 3. The dummy's clubs furnished discards of all his three diamonds. Even a diamond lead could not have hurt a small slam contract, regardless of where the A might have been located.

So North then heard a lecture from his partner on the right and wrong times to make the kind of bid he did. North was so terrifically strong, in view of his partner's having an opening bid, that he should have been interested in slam from the outset. Either 3-Clubs or 3-Hearts, dependent upon his bidding style, would have been richly justified. More and more players nowadays are preferring the double jump in the original suit to a jump takeout as a game force, since it gives the other side less information to guide the defense.

If North had bid 3-Hearts, South said he would have used the Blackwood 4-No Trump bid. North's response of 5-Hearts, showing two aces, would have caused a 6-Heart bid by South. Of course, North's two aces might have been in the minors, but that would have been so unlikely that the slam effort would have been more than justified.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ A K Q 10 3 ♥ 4 ♦ 10 9 8 5 2 ♣ A K
♠ 9 ♥ 7 6 3 ♦ A K 7 6 4 3 ♣ 6 5 3	N W E S	♠ J 8 7 6 2 ♥ A Q ♦ Q J ♣ Q J 10 9
	♠ 5 4 ♥ K J 10 9 8 5 2 ♦ None ♣ 8 7 4 2

(Dealer: North. North-South culnerable.)

How should South play for 6-Hearts, doubled by East, if West, who had bid diamonds, leads the spade 9?

Card of Thanks

We are taking this method to thank our friends and neighbors for the kindness extended to us during the illness and bereavement of our beloved husband and father, Harry W. Seaber of Westernport.

We also wish to thank those who sent floral tributes and donated their cars for the funeral.

MRS. HARRY W. SEABER & FAMILY

In Memoriam

In memory of Cpl. James Ault, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Ault, of Flintstone, Md., who was killed at Ft. Bragg, N. C., one year ago today.

If everyone who drives a car
Could lie a month in bed,
With broken bones and stitched-up wounds
Or fractures of the head.
And there endure the agonies
That many people do.
They'd never need preach safety
Any more to me or you.

If every one could stand beside
The bed of some close friend
And hear the Doctor say, "No Hope"
Before the fatal end.
And see him there unconscious
Never knowing what took place,
The laws and rules of traffic
I am sure we'd soon embrace.

If every one could meet
And step into that darkened home
Where once the sunlight shined.
And look upon "the Vacant Chair,"
Where Daddy used to sit,
I am sure each reckless driver
Would be forced to think a bit.

If every one who takes the wheel
Would say a little prayer.
And keep in mind those in the car
Depending on his care.
And make a vow and pledge himself
To never take a chance.
The Great Crusade for Safety
Would suddenly advance.

Card of Thanks

We are taking this method to thank our friends and neighbors for the kindness extended to us during the illness and bereavement of our beloved husband and father, Harry W. Seaber of Westernport.

We also wish to thank those who sent floral tributes and donated their cars for the funeral.

MRS. HARRY W. SEABER & FAMILY

In Memoriam

In memory of Cpl. James Ault, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Ault, of Flintstone, Md., who was killed at Ft. Bragg, N. C., one year ago today.

If everyone who drives a car
Could lie a month in bed,
With broken bones and stitched-up wounds
Or fractures of the head.
And there endure the agonies
That many people do.
They'd never need preach safety
Any more to me or you.

If every one could stand beside
The bed of some close friend
And hear the Doctor say, "No Hope"
Before the fatal end.
And see him there unconscious
Never knowing what took place,
The laws and rules of traffic
I am sure we'd soon embrace.

And step into that darkened home
Where once the sunlight shined.
And look upon "the Vacant Chair,"
Where Daddy used to sit.
I am sure each reckless driver
Would be forced to think a bit.

If every one who takes the wheel
Would say a little prayer.
And keep in mind those in the car
Depending on his care.
And make a vow and pledge himself
To never take a chance.
The Great Crusade for Safety
Would suddenly advance.

Rain May End Record Drought Over Weekend

New Forest Fires Reported In Area

Rain may fall on Western Maryland's dust-dry forests over the weekend, the Weather Bureau said last night as the longest, driest autumn drought in nearly 30 years rounded out its first month.

Today is expected to be dry and warm again, but the weatherman said rain probably will fall over much of the Eastern United States during the weekend. "Appreciably cooler weather" is running behind the storm system on its way east.

No soaking rain has fallen here for more than ten weeks. The last rain which amounted to more than a barely measurable trace fell September 20-21. But that was only .26 of an inch.

Two New Fires Quelled

Two small forest fires broke out in Allegany County yesterday, but both were brought under control quickly.

Forest Supervisor Brook Bodkin discovered the first fire yesterday afternoon on Big Savage Mountain west of Mount Savage. The blaze ruined an eighth of an acre of woodland before Forest Guard George Brown and Forest Warden Earl Lepley brought it under control.

In nearby West Virginia, the picture was more serious.

Tilden Norris of Romney, district forester for eight northern West Virginia Counties, said he believed a fire which swept over 100 Pendleton County acres Tuesday had been deliberately set.

The fire, he pointed out, was the fourth in that area in recent weeks.

Water Supplies Low

Foresters put out a 35-acre blaze near Pinto yesterday, but another fire swept over three acres near Slanesville in Hampshire County before being extinguished.

The water supply situation has been bleak almost from the beginning of the drought.

At Barton, for instance, people who live in the downton section have water from 8 a. m. to 11 p. m. On the heights, at Quality Hill, water is available from 11 p. m. to 8 a. m. But sometimes the pressure falls so low that Dogwood Flat is without water in the daytime, and has no service at night.

Other towns in the Georges Creek area have been having similar difficulty since late August or early September.

Meanwhile, Governor Theodore R. McKeldin refused to call off the hunting season, saying he didn't think it would help matters much.

McKeldin made the statement in a letter to Milton E. Canter, a Washington attorney, after a conference in the governor's office with state forestry and wildlife officials.

Says Hunters Help

An aide said Canter owned property in Montgomery County and was among "several persons" who had requested the governor to place a ban on hunting.

McKeldin said he was advised by state officials "that hunting is far from being the major cause of forest fires, and that, on the contrary, hunters are frequently instrumental in the extinguishing of fires originating from other sources."

More of the fires are started, he said, by "brush burning, trash burning, and carelessness on the part of motorists who throw lighted cigarettes, cigars and pipe ashes from their automobiles when passing through wooded areas."

The governor said he was told that hunters comprise only about 10 per cent of the persons now entering state woodlands each day.

Attending the meeting were Joseph F. Kaylor, director of the Department of Forests and Parks; William H. Bayliff, executive secretary of the Board of Natural Resources; and Ernest A. Vaughn, director of the Department of Game and Inland Fish.

"Constant Vigilance"

McKeldin said all three agreed that suspending the hunting season would serve no useful purpose.

He said Vaughan noted that approximately 3,000 hunters were in the Green Ridge State Forest in the first three days of this year's hunting season and that no fires were reported there during the period. Vaughan said this was generally representative of the state as a whole.

On the other hand, Kaylor pointed out that one of the most destructive fires of the season, burning about 170 acres in Garrett County, occurred on Sunday when no hunters were in the forest.

McKeldin said the answer seemed to lie in constant vigilance by all citizens to prevent the start and spread of fires.

And he concluded:

Fire Damages Car

Central Fire Company was called to the B&O viaduct at Bow Street shortly before 4 p. m. yesterday when a junked 1933 model car owned by Moore Motor Sales caught fire. The blaze was confined to the back seat upholstery.

South End firemen put out a grass fire in 200-block Massachusetts Avenue at 3:20 p. m. There was no damage.

Mark 30th Anniversary

Rev. and Mrs. Henry E. Heckert observed their 30th wedding anniversary at their home this week and are shown here cutting their anniversary wedding cake. Rev. Heckert is pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene, Oldtown Road and has been here for two years. The couple wed October 20, 1923 at Reading, Pa., and came here from Bel Air. They have three daughters, one living in Kansas City and two at home. Members of their congregation and friends presented them with luggage.

Judge Postpones Boy's Sentence In Auto Thefts

Companion Is Taken To Juvenile Court

One of two local youths, arrested in connection with attempted auto theft, had his sentence deferred in Trial Magistrate Court, while the other younger boy was turned over to a psychiatrist for examination.

The two boys were arrested Tuesday on charges of unauthorized use. Police said the two had attempted to take three autos.

Changes Charge

Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick changed the charge against Jerry Eugene "Buck" Frantz, 18, of 200-block Avirett Avenue, to a charge of parole violation. Magistrate Dick postponed sentence in order that the case may be investigated further. Frantz pleaded guilty.

Both Frantz and a 15-year-old companion signed statements admitting they tried to steal the automobiles, police said. The younger boy was taken to Allegany County Juvenile Court.

Magistrate Alban C. Thompson, of Juvenile Court, said the boy had been taken to detention quarters at Allegany County Infirmary. A psychiatrist will give the youth a complete psychiatric examination and will give Magistrate Thompson a report tomorrow.

Both boys have police records. Frantz was given a suspended sentence of nine months in the Maryland House of Correction on September 14 after he pleaded guilty to stealing the auto of Charles S. Catherman, 29 Prospect Square, from North George Street four days earlier.

The youngest boy told police he made an unsuccessful attempt to take his father's car from Henry Street after he broke a rear window, pulled the ignition wires loose and used tinfoil on the wires in an attempt to start the machine.

Fearing his father would find out, the youth said he joined Frantz. Together they attempted to take two unlocked cars in South Cumberland by using tinfoil. They were picked up by Detective Leo P. Law and Officer Paul E. Penrod early yesterday morning.

Runs Away

Magistrate Thompson said the 15-year-old youth indicated he was running away to Louisiana. Thompson added the boy had run away once before and changed his name so he could not be traced.

At that time, Thompson said, investigation showed that the boy had arrived at Father Kelliher's Working Boys Home, Buffalo, N. Y., on the night of March 31. Authorities in Buffalo said the youth was hungry, without funds and his clothing was in rags.

The local youth gave a fictitious name and produced a draft card, giving his age as 18. The draft card, authorities later learned, was taken in Toledo, Ohio.

The youth, however, was taken in by the Catholic home, and Father Kelliher provided him with food, shelter and clothes. Authorities reported that a job was obtained for the boy and that he had done well. When he left the home on June 13, he had a complete wardrobe and between $75 and $90 in cash which the home had banked for him.

After arriving in Cumberland the boy reported to the Juvenile Court and was placed in the charge of Homer S. Higgins, county supervisor of pupil personnel for the Board of Education.

Ridgeley Legion Will Build Second Floor At Post Home

Members of Knobley Mountain Post 136, American Legion of Ridgeley, have voted to build a second floor addition to the present post home.

At the regular meeting of the post, K. Albert Wolfe, post commander, authorized members of the building committee to advertise for bids, seek a contract and get the work underway.

Legion members said the huge new second floor will provide space for presenting post dances and events, and it will be offered for the use of other community organizations for meetings, dinners and other affairs.

Also last night, a committee for the Halloween costume dance slated at the post home October 30, was appointed. It includes:

Leo V. Mills, Roland Tabler, James McFarland and Chester Payne.

Dancing will be from 9 p. m. to midnight with music by the Helen Pettie Trio.

It was announced at the meeting that Leo V. Mills has been appointed to the board of directors of West Virginia Boys' State Inc.

Clean Fun Cited On Halloween By School Students

The student councils of Mt. Savage School are setting up a program as a step to prevent serious property damage which is often caused during the pre-Halloween celebration.

Alfred H. Benna, principal of the school, last night said a color movie will be shown the students the first part of November if they comply with the present plans and not cause damage which results from some Halloween pranks.

The Junior Student Council, composed of elementary pupils, has worked up a program whereby a movie will be shown and a mummers parade held in the school. Various decorations that may be taken home will also be made by the pupils in an effort to have clean fun.

A plan to get away from the "trick or treat" observed each year is being worked out whereby pupils who do visit homes on Halloween will be grateful for any treat offered to them.

The Student Council of the High School will sponsor two dances prior to Halloween night and a parade through the streets of Mt. Savage will be held in conjunction with the volunteer firemen's revue. The mummers will parade to the music of the school band. The purpose of the program, Benna noted, is to encourage clean fun and do away with destructible pranks.

Cosgrove In Hospital

Edward A. Cosgrove, 610 Sylvan Avenue, manager of the Cosgrove Cycle Company, 252 North Centre Street, is reported in good condition at Sacred Heart Hospital where he underwent an operation Monday.

Cancer Fund Apportioned To Counties

Surplus funds received from the 1953 Cancer Crusade have already been apportioned, and in many instances, spent, toward a larger cancer control program in Maryland, according to Dr. C. Bernard Brack, president of the Maryland Division of the American Cancer Society.

With a goal of $310,000, some $383,975 was contributed by Marylanders in every city and county in the State.

The 1953 campaign surplus funds, over and above the funds needed to cover the budget for all phases of the cancer control program in Maryland for the coming year, amounted to $34,000.

Allocations began in June, Dr. Brack said.

Research grants were increased from $40,000 to $50,000.

Some $10,000 has been earmarked for profession fellowships and traineeships for Maryland scientists. This is the first time such a category has been established from Maryland funds.

The mount of $14,000 has already bee divided between the University of Maryland School of Medicine and the Johns Hopkins School of Medicine in the form of institutional grants for cancer research.

Dr. Brack said that even with the sizable increase in research funds available, the Cancer Society has still been unable to honor all the applications requesting funds for research that it has received.

The 1953 Cancer Crusade was the most successful ever held in Maryland to date. Baltimoreans, with a quota of $200,000, contributed $220,605.00 or 110.3% of the goal.

Maryland counties, with a target of $110,000.00, raised $150,934 or 137.2% of their apportionment.

Study Starts On Revamping Flood Project

Wall Is Suggested In Lieu Of Levees

City officials of Cumberland and Ridgeley have requested the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers to consider the substitution of a flood wall in lieu of the proposed levees in West Cumberland near the Kelly Boulevard and along the south bank of the Potomac River in Ridgeley.

This proposal was made as an economy measure yesterday following a tour of the local flood control project by representatives of the property acquistion section of the Corps; Mayor Roy W. Eves; William V. Keegan, finance commissioner; Charles R. Nuzum, city engineer; Thomas B. Finan, city solicitor and Jesse H. Simmons and Charles W. Fryer, of Ridgeley.

Also pointed out was the fact that the city of Cumberland would endeavor to ascertain from the Maryland State Roads Commission whether or not they would acquire the property necessary for the levee in West Cumberland, if a levee is used, on the basis that the SRC tentatively plans to use the levee as a road bed for a portion of the cross-town highway.

Would Save Money

The reason for suggesting the change from a levee to a flood wall was to save costly real estate acquisition, as present plans for a levee embrace the removal of a number of substantial dwellings in West Cumberland and Ridgeley.

The group also discussed the possibility of approaching the State Road Commission of West Virginia with the suggestion that the commission proceed in conjunction with the flood control development to straighten out Route 28, and thus preclude the necessity of Cumberland acquiring real estate along Route 28.

It appears that even though the city would acquire this real estate and alter the present road to conform with the proposed Flood Control Project, that subsequently the SRC of West Virginia would want to further change the location of Route 28 through Ridgeley, thereby rendering the cost to the city of Cumberland useless expenditure.

Smith's Island was also visited by the group. They discussed a suggestion made by Albert S. Paye who represented the Cumberland Cement and Supply Company, relative to the removal of the present gravel and sand deposits on a speeded up schedule, so that it will not be necessary for the Corps of Engineers to pay for all the deposits now on the island.

Change In Schedule

If the Supply Company is to be allowed to remove the sand and gravel, the group pointed out, it would require a change in the time schedule in flood control work.

The cutting of the channel through the island would have to be placed at the tail end of the project rather than being next on the project or within the next year's construction work as presently planned.

City Engineer Nuzum was instructed to give the Ridgeley representatives the drawings pertaining to the road changes on Route 28, along with a summary of his correspondence with the W. Va. SRC. Simmons indicated he would endeavor to lay the ground work for a proper approach to the SRC.

The Corps was not represented at the meeting yesterday and Tuesday by personnel authorized to comment on the feasibility of the suggested changes in design and scheduling of work.

This afternoon a meeting will be held at which time representatives of the Corps are to confer with Maryland State Roads Commission representatives to go over the problem.

Supervisors End Conference Here

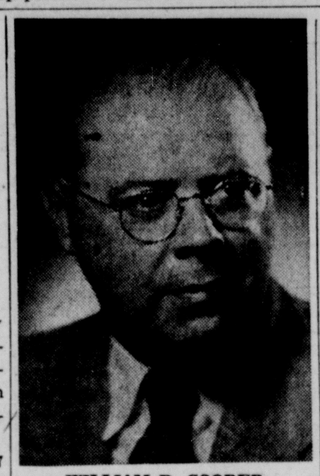
R. Bowen Hardesty, superintendent of public schools in Garrett County, summarized the results of the three-day conference of school supervisors from six Maryland counties yesterday as the program came to a close at Frostburg State Teachers College.

William A. Gunter, this city, a member of the State Board of Education, addressed the 45 supervisors briefly yesterday afternoon.

During the morning session, the supervisors were divided into four discussion groups to consider certain phases of the program as observed in a tour of certain Allegany County Public schools Tuesday.

Later, when the entire group got together for the final session, one supervisor from each discussion group summarized the findings of that group. These reports were made by Miss Elizabeth McMahon, elementary supervisor in Prince George's County; Miss Clara Stratemeyer, elementary supervisor in Montgomery County; Carl Beer, elementary supervisor in Washington County, and Catherine Beachley, guidance supervisor in Washington County.

James E. Spitznas, director of instruction for the State Department of Education, was general chairman of the three-day program. Supervisors from Prince George's, Montgomery, Frederick, Washington, Allegany and Garrett counties attended.



WILLIAM P. COOPER

Cooper Heads State Group

William P. Cooper, director of the Allegany County school lunch program, has been unanimously elected first president of the new Maryland School Food Service Association.

Other officers are Miss Ruth S. MacVean, school lunch supervisor, Frederick County, vice-president; Miss Rachel E. Boyd, supervisor of home economics and cafeterias in Cecil County, secretary, and Miss Ethel Paper, Baltimore County school lunch supervisor, treasurer.

The state association will recruit several hundred members and will meet next year in conjunction with the State Teachers Association meeting.

Cooper is a charter member of the American School Food Service Association, organized seven years ago in Chicago. He has been chairman of the legislative committee, has held other offices and has attended all of its conventions. Next month he will head a panel discussion on county school lunch organization at the convention in Boston.

Man Charged With Lying To Wed Girl Freed On Bond

An area man, arrested Saturday on charges of making a false statement to secure a marriage license here, was released for action of the Grand Jury on $500 bond.

Dexter Rudolph Beck, 22, of RD 1, Chaneysville, Pa., pleaded guilty before Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick on a charge of making a false statement to procure a marriage license to wed a 14-year-old Flintstone girl.

Police said he gave the age of Dolores Eleanor Shreve as 19 years when her true age was 14.

Rosenmarkle is former treasurer of the Dapper Dan Club, an organization which finances children's activities. The money was embezzled from that club.

At extradition hearings today before Lausche's executive secretary, Rosenmarkle's attorney stated that his client had offered to return the embezzled funds. The governor's decision is expected tomorrow.

Rain May End Record Drought Over Weekend

New Forest Fires Reported In Area

Rain may fall on Western Maryland's dust-dry forests over the weekend, the Weather Bureau said last night as the longest, driest autumn drought in nearly 30 years rounded out its first month.

Today is expected to be dry and warm again, but the weatherman said rain probably will fall over much of the Eastern United States during the weekend. "Appreciably cooler weather" is running behind the storm system on its way east.

No soaking rain has fallen here for more than ten weeks. The last rain which amounted to more than a barely measurable trace fell September 20-21. But that was only .26 of an inch.

Two New Fires Quelled

Two small forest fires broke out in Allegany County yesterday, but both were brought under control quickly.

Forest Supervisor Brook Bodkin discovered the first fire yesterday afternoon on Big Savage Mountain west of Mount Savage. The blaze ruined an eighth of an acre of woodland before Forest Guard George Brown and Forest Warden Earl Lepley brought it under control.

District 16 Volunteer Fire Company, with Bodkin's assistance, put out another fire on Williams Road at Evitts Creek early last night, confining the blaze to one-fifth of an acre.

In nearby West Virginia, the picture was more serious.

Tilden Norris of Romney, district forester for eight northern West Virginia Counties, said he believed a fire which swept over 100 Pendleton County acres Tuesday had been deliberately set.

The fire, he pointed out, was the fourth in that area in recent weeks.

Water Supplies Low

Foresters put out a 35-acre blaze near Pinto yesterday, but another fire swept over three acres near Slanesville in Hampshire County before being extinguished.

The water supply situation has been bleak almost from the beginning of the drought.

At Barton, for instance, people who live in the downton section have water from 8 a. m. to 11 p. m. On the heights, at Quality Hill, water is available from 11 p. m. to 8 a. m. But sometimes the pressure falls so low that Dogwood Flat is without water in the daytime, and has no service at night.

Other towns in the Georges Creek area have been having similar difficulty since late August or early September.

Meanwhile, Governor Theodore R. McKeldin refused to call off the hunting season, saying he didn't think it would help matters much.

McKeldin made the statement in a letter to Milton E. Canter, a Washington attorney, after a conference in the governor's office with state forestry and wildlife officials.

Says Hunters Help

An aide said Canter owned property in Montgomery County and was among "several persons" who had requested the governor to place a ban on hunting.

McKeldin said he was advised by state officials "that hunting is far from being the major cause of forest fires, and that, on the contrary, hunters are frequently instrumental in the extinguishing of fires originating from other sources."

More of the fires are started, he said, by "brush burning, trash burning, and carelessness on the part of motorists who throw lighted cigarettes, cigars and pipe ashes from their automobiles when passing through wooded areas."

The governor said he was told that hunters comprise only about 10 per cent of the persons now entering state woodlands each day.

Attending the meeting were Joseph F. Kaylor, director of the Department of Forests and Parks; William H. Bayliff, executive secretary of the Board of Natural Resources; and Ernest A. Vaughn, director of the Department of Game and Inland Fish.

"Constant Vigilance"

McKeldin said all three agreed that suspending the hunting season would serve no useful purpose.

He said Vaughan noted that approximately 3,000 hunters were in the Green Ridge State Forest in the first three days of this year's hunting season and that no fires were reported there during the period. Vaughan said this was generally representative of the state as a whole.

On the other hand, Kaylor pointed out that one of the most destructive fires of the season, burning about 170 acres in Garrett County, occurred on Sunday when no hunters were in the forest.

McKeldin said the answer seemed to lie in constant vigilance by all citizens to prevent the start and spread of fires.

And he concluded:

Fire Damages Car

Central Fire Company was called to the B&O viaduct at Bow Street shortly before 4 p. m. yesterday when a junked 1933 model car owned by Moore Motor Sales caught fire. The blaze was confined to the back seat upholstery.

South End firemen put out a grass fire in 200-block Massachusetts Avenue at 3:20 p. m. There was no damage.

Judge Postpones Boy's Sentence In Auto Thefts

Companion Is Taken To Juvenile Court

One of two local youths, arrested in connection with attempted auto theft, had his sentence deferred in Trial Magistrate Court, while the other younger boy was turned over to a psychiatrist for examination.

The two boys were arrested Tuesday on charges of unauthorized use. Police said the two had attempted to take three autos.

Changes Charge

Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick changed the charge against Jerry Eugene "Buck" Frantz, 18, of 200-block Avirett Avenue, to a charge of parole violation. Magistrate Dick postponed sentence in order that the case may be investigated further. Frantz pleaded guilty.

Both Frantz and a 15-year-old companion signed statements admitting they tried to steal the automobiles, police said. The younger boy was taken to Allegany County Juvenile Court.

Magistrate Alban C. Thompson, of Juvenile Court, said the boy had been taken to detention quarters at Allegany County Infirmary. A psychiatrist will give the youth a complete psychiatric examination and will give Magistrate Thompson a report tomorrow.

Both boys have police records. Frantz was given a suspended sentence of nine months in the Maryland House of Correction on September 14 after he pleaded guilty to stealing the auto of Charles S. Catherman, 29 Prospect Square, from North George Street four days earlier.

The youngest boy told police he made an unsuccessful attempt to take his father's car from Henry Street after he broke a rear window, pulled the ignition wires loose and used tinfoil on the wires in an attempt to start the machine.

Fearing his father would find out, the youth said he joined Frantz. Together they attempted to take two unlocked cars in South Cumberland by using tinfoil. They were picked up by Detective Leo P. Law and Officer Paul E. Penrod early yesterday morning.

Runs Away

Magistrate Thompson said the 15-year-old youth indicated he was running away to Louisiana. Thompson added the boy had run away once before and changed his name so he could not be traced.

At that time, Thompson said, investigation showed that the boy had arrived at Father Kelliher's Working Boys Home, Buffalo, N. Y., on the night of March 31. Authorities in Buffalo said the youth was hungry, without funds and his clothing was in rags.

The local youth gave a fictitious name and produced a draft card, giving his age as 18. The draft card, authorities later learned, was taken in Toledo, Ohio.

The youth, however, was taken in by the Catholic home, and Father Kelliher provided him with food, shelter and clothes. Authorities reported that a job was obtained for the boy and that he had done well. When he left the home on June 13, he had a complete wardrobe and between $75 and $90 in cash which the home had banked for him.

After arriving in Cumberland the boy reported to the Juvenile Court and was placed in the charge of Homer S. Higgins, county supervisor of pupil personnel for the Board of Education.

Ridgeley Legion Will Build Second Floor At Post Home

At the regular meeting of the post, K. Albert Wolfe, post commander, authorized members of the building committee to advertise for bids, seek a contract and get the work underway.

Legion members said the huge new second floor will provide space for presenting post dances and events, and it will be offered for the use of other community organizations for meetings, dinners and other affairs.

Also last night, a committee for the Halloween costume dance slated at the post home October 30, was appointed. It includes:

Leo V. Mills, Roland Tabler, James McFarland and Chester Payne.

Dancing will be from 9 p. m. to midnight with music by the Helen Pettie Trio.

It was announced at the meeting that Leo V. Mills has been appointed to the board of directors of West Virginia Boys' State Inc.

Clean Fun Cited On Halloween By School Students

The student councils of Mt. Savage School are setting up a program as a step to prevent serious property damage which is often caused during the pre-Halloween celebration.

Alfred H. Benna, principal of the school, last night said a color movie will be shown the students the first part of November if they comply with the present plans and not cause damage which results from some Halloween pranks.

The Junior Student Council, composed of elementary pupils, has worked up a program whereby a movie will be shown and a mummers parade held in the school. Various decorations that may be taken home will also be made by the pupils in an effort to have clean fun.

A plan to get away from the "trick or treat" observed each year is being worked out whereby pupils who do visit homes on Halloween will be grateful for any treat offered to them.

The Student Council of the High School will sponsor two dances prior to Halloween night and a parade through the streets of Mt. Savage will be held in conjunction with the volunteer firemen's revue. The mummers will parade to the music of the school band. The purpose of the program, Benna noted, is to encourage clean fun and do away with destructible pranks.

Cancer Fund Apportioned To Counties

Surplus funds received from the 1953 Cancer Crusade have already been apportioned, and in many instances, spent, toward a larger cancer control program in Maryland, according to Dr. C. Bernard Brack, president of the Maryland Division of the American Cancer Society.

With a goal of $310,000, some $383,975 was contributed by Marylanders in every city and county in the State.

The 1953 campaign surplus funds, over and above the funds needed to cover the budget for all phases of the cancer control program in Maryland for the coming year, amounted to $34,000.

Allocations began in June, Dr. Brack said.

Research grants were increased from $40,000 to $50,000.

Some $10,000 has been earmarked for profession fellowships and traineeships for Maryland scientists. This is the first time such a category has been established from Maryland funds.

The mount of $14,000 has already bee divided between the University of Maryland School of Medicine and the Johns Hopkins School of Medicine in the form of institutional grants for cancer research.

Dr. Brack said that even with the sizable increase in research funds available, the Cancer Society has still been unable to honor all the applications requesting funds for research that it has received.

The 1953 Cancer Crusade was the most successful ever held in Maryland to date. Baltimoreans, with a quota of $200,000, contributed $220,605.00 or 110.3% of the goal.

Maryland counties, with a target of $110,000.00, raised $150,934 or 137.2% of their apportionment.

Wall Is Suggested In Lieu Of Levees

City officials of Cumberland and Ridgeley have requested the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers to consider the substitution of a flood wall in lieu of the proposed levees in West Cumberland near the Kelly Boulevard and along the south bank of the Potomac River in Ridgeley.

This proposal was made as an economy measure yesterday following a tour of the local flood control project by representatives of the property acquistion section of the Corps; Mayor Roy W. Eves; William V. Keegan, finance commissioner; Charles R. Nuzum, city engineer; Thomas B. Finan, city solicitor and Jesse H. Simmons and Charles W. Fryer, of Ridgeley.

Also pointed out was the fact that the city of Cumberland would endeavor to ascertain from the Maryland State Roads Commission whether or not they would acquire the property necessary for the levee in West Cumberland, if a levee is used, on the basis that the SRC tentatively plans to use the levee as a road bed for a portion of the cross-town highway.

Would Save Money

The reason for suggesting the change from a levee to a flood wall was to save costly real estate acquisition, as present plans for a levee embrace the removal of a number of substantial dwellings in West Cumberland and Ridgeley.

The group also discussed the possibility of approaching the State Road Commission of West Virginia with the suggestion that the commission proceed in conjunction with the flood control development to straighten out Route 28, and thus preclude the necessity of Cumberland acquiring real estate along Route 28.

It appears that even though the city would acquire this real estate and alter the present road to conform with the proposed Flood Control Project, that subsequently the SRC of West Virginia would want to further change the location of Route 28 through Ridgeley, thereby rendering the cost to the city of Cumberland : useless expenditure.

Smith's Island was also visited by the group. They discussed a suggestion made by Albert S. Paye who represented the Cumberland Cement and Supply Company, relative to the removal of the present gravel and sand deposits on a speeded up schedule, so that it will not be necessary for the Corps of Engineers to pay for all the deposits now on the island.

Change In Schedule

If the Supply Company is to be allowed to remove the sand and gravel, the group pointed out, it would require a change in the time schedule in flood control work.

The cutting of the channel through the island would have to be placed at the tail end of the project rather than being next on the project or within the next year's construction work as presently planned.

City Engineer Nuzum was instructed to give the Ridgeley representatives the drawings pertaining to the road changes on Route 28, along with a summary of his correspondence with the W. Va. SRC. Simmons indicated he would endeavor to lay the ground work for a proper approach to the SRC.

The Corps was not represented at the meeting yesterday and Tuesday by personnel authorized to comment on the feasibility of the suggested changes in design and scheduling of work.

This afternoon a meeting will be held at which time representatives of the Corps are to confer with Maryland State Roads Commission representatives to go over the problem.
